Hoffman Estates Tax Rate Up; Still Pay Less

Hoffman Estates property owners will pay a 12½-cent tax rate increase next year, but they still will save money, village officials said Tuesday.

The village board authorized a 1972-73 tax levy, of $835,934, including the rate increase. The levy is to be collected in 1973 on property assessed this year.

The board approved the tax rate increase in tandem with discontinuation of a bi-monthly service charge of $3.70 for garbage collection service. While a scavenger firm actually collects the garbage, the village handles billing and keeps records. The tax rate increase is to replace the service charge used in financing village expenses.

A memo to the board from George Longmeyer indicated the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 valuation would save $12.45 per year by paying the tax rather than the service charge.

The service charge works out to a total of $22.20 over a year's time, which now will not be paid by the homeowner. In addition, said Longmeyer, the homeowner would be entitled to deduct $2.75 from his income tax for 1973 for the payment of the additional village tax. This would save the homeowner a total of $24.95 per year.

BUT THE SAME homeowner would pay an additional $12.50 in village taxes, due to the increase.

The net savings, subtracting the tax increase from the $24.95, would amount to $12.45, said Longmeyer.

All other village tax rates will remain the same.

The total village levy will be 91.16 cents. However, the village tax is only less than 10 per cent of the total tax rate a homeowner pays.

For example, in 1971, the last year for which total tax rates now are available, the village rate was .662 cents. The total tax rate, including levies by 14 other taxing bodies, was $8.462 per $100 assessed valuation.

Because any of the other taxing bodies could change their rates also, the total levy for 1972 cannot yet be predicted.

Plan Unit To Eye Housing For Elderly

Housing for the elderly and an Old Town Schaumburg area are on the agenda for the Schaumburg Plan Commission, Chairman Ray McArthur announced Tuesday.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher asked the commission to develop plans for the two projects, McArthur said.

The idea for Schaumburg to develop some sort of elderly housing originated with the Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission, McArthur said. The Herald, he said, has also carried articles on the subject.

THE COMMISSION'S job is to consider how to go about planning for the housing. "We can call in planners or do it ourselves," McArthur said.

Some sort of preparation, he said, is long overdue. The commission may consider special zoning allowing such housing or possibly low-cost construction. A nursing home is another possibility, he said.

"We may prepare for the housing in the zoning and subdivision ordinance," McArthur said.

Old Town Schaumburg is the name Mayor Atcher has suggested for the area surrounding the intersection of Roselle and Schaumburg roads. The mayor asked the commission to develop a plan for 40 acres on each of the four corners of the intersection.

The area would be rezoned into a yet unnamed special classification. This zoning class, McArthur said, would permit buildings not allowed elsewhere in the village.

The buildings would maintain an "Old Town" look. Wood buildings would be preferred, McArthur said. Architecture would be controlled.

MANY OF THE old buildings in the area would be retained and restored if necessary.

McArthur asked commission members to consider possibilities for the two projects. He said money has been allotted for any needed outside planning.

Formulation of plans for the two projects will begin at the commission's Oct. 3 meeting.

PRE-OPENING DAY picture of the John Muir Elementary School in Hoffman Estates show it in the final stages of construction. Believe it or not, the facility designed to facilitate Dist. 54's Individually Guided Education Program was completed and in use by students yesterday.

Muir School Not Carpeted Fieldhouse

If environmentalist John Muir could walk through the new school Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 educators named after him, he might feel a kinship for the architect who designed the building.

Both men show an appreciation for open space.

S. Guy Fishman, architect of the district's newest facility open to students this school year, designed the building for use with the Individually Guided Education program (IGE).

IGE is a comprehensive system of education and instruction designed to produce higher achievements by providing for differences among students.

L. R. OLSON, principal of Muir said the district's IGE program is more comprehensive than individualized instruction where a student learns using special materials with little assistance from a teacher.

Teachers will have a definite role in the IGE program at Muir School.

Olson who begins his fifth year in the district as Muir principal said his main aim in meetings with parents before this term was to dispel the image that Muir is a carpeted fieldhouse.

The building will welcome approximately 300 students with bare floors. Bad weather delayed the construction of the facility but enabled workers to ready the building for student use. However cabi-network and carpeting will be installed later.

When parents heard Muir had no traditional classrooms and students would be part of multi-unit classes instead of in self contained classes there was some question of just how "open" Muir would be, said the principal.

MUIR IS A flexible space building that can be departmentalized by moving partitions. Instead of classrooms the staff will set up environments.

"Motivation is our prime factor and let's face it most schools do not use the environment to motivate learning," said Olson.

At Muir primary grade students may cuddle into the arms of a giant Poo bear to read a story or plop down on his stomach. "The important thing is that the student wants to read and if we can make him comfortable, why not?" said the principal.

The building is acoustically balanced and learning areas can be departmentalized at will, said Olson. The district's 22nd building is a two-story design that will have space equivalent to a 12-room building. It is located at 1973 Kensington Ln., south of Hassell Road in Hoffman Estates.

OLSON CALLS the IGE program a very human program that allows educators to teach the individual child not a group. Muir will group children in primary level units that offer curriculum over a longer period than a single year in order to allow a child to advance without repeating content.

Olson said teachers at Muir will take curriculum and break it down to the individual student. Children will be offered many different ways to achieve objectives and not the traditional single textbook approach.

IGE is not a new system for Dist. 54, but Muir School is the first building designed specifically for its application. The principal stressed that Muir is not an experimental school and the IGE program has been used and approved in the district.

"Perhaps the only real new thing about Muir is that besides the teachers the building itself will motivate students just by being a place that allows an open seeking mind," said Olson.

Finishing touches to Muir should be completed this month. An 18-room addition has been tentatively scheduled to be added by September, 1974. The only other new facility in the district open this week is an eight-room flexible space addition to the Hanover Highlands School in Hanover Park.

SEA May Take Strike Vote If No Settlement Made

by JERRY THOMAS

A strike vote by Schaumburg Education Association (SEA) teachers could be taken Wednesday if salary contract talks with Dist. 54's board of education are not settled before then.

Preliminary action includes a declaration of impasse, and request for state intervention if settlement on all items in the teachers' negotiations package is not reached at a meeting scheduled Sunday.

Jay Hanson, president elect of the Schaumburg Education Association (SEA) received the association's executive board approval Wednesday for the following course of action.

All items submitted in the SEA negotiations package not approved by Sunday when the two teams are scheduled to meet will be declared at impasse.

At that time the Cook County Education Service Region and Supt. Richard Martwick will be notified that Dist. 54 teachers "welcome and accept Martwick's offer to help with salary and contract negotiations," said Hanson.

"If no progress is made or settlement reached from Sunday to the following Wednesday, Sept. 13 teachers in the district will be asked to consider other courses of action," said Hanson.

"A strike vote is one course of action we could take," he added.

Until this week's action by the SEA executive board, both the SEA team and board of education negotiations teams were reporting "progress" in negotiation sessions held frequently this past month.

Procedures for mediation, arbitration and terms of a salary scale were among major items still not finalized. Other items in the SEA proposal were teachers' requests to have a say so about class size, teacher evaluation, work load and other working conditions; items not now covered by contract.

Ask Delay In Airport Expansion Study

Armed with a letter from State Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) terming expansion of Schaumburg Airport as "intolerable," Mrs. Jane Murphy Tuesday asked the village clean environment committee (CEC) to recommend delaying a study on airport expansion needs.

Schlickman's letter said Schaumburg should await the findings of a $200,000 state airport needs study to be completed next year.

Mrs. Murphy also suggested CEC request the feasibility study be held up pending completion of an Argonne Laboratories investigation on pollution factors in the O'Hare area. The Argonne study should be concluded within several months, Mrs. Murphy said.

Last spring, Mrs. Murphy, an admitted opponent of airport expansion, asked the airport committee, and subsequently, the village board to delay the matter until results of these studies were made public.

Both the committee and the board of trustees refused after reporting that their research had determined neither study would address itself strictly to local needs or problems.

IN ACALLING FOR delay again, Mrs. Murphy asked CEC to endorse regional, as opposed to local, planning and noted that presently there are no state guidelines for a proper environmental study.

CEC Member Al Larson said he believes the consulting firm involved in the project will incorporate findings of the two regional investigations.

"I just don't think this committee can come forth at this time with the recommendations you are asking for and which, I believe, are based on presumption," Larson told Mrs. Murphy.

Roselle Road Tollway Ramp Plan Renewed

Efforts to persuade the Illinois Tollway Commission to construct an interchange on the Northwest Tollway at Roselle Road were revived yesterday by officials from Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Harper College.

A committee has been working to get the interchange at that location for nearly two years. The group is composed of Schaumburg village engineer Joe Zgonina; Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman; and Dr. John Lucas of Harper College.

The group examined preliminary samples of a survey to be used for collecting data on how much traffic the proposed interchange would receive.

Regan said it is important to convince tollway officials at that now in acquiring land for the interchange at Roselle Road. "We have to present them with convincing facts about the situation," Regan added.

Zgonina agreed and said future development near the proposed interchange indicates a real need for the interchange.

The group outlined an area bordered by Quentin-Freeman-Dundee and Schaumburg roads where most persons to be included in the survey will come from. They reasoned this area represents the potential users of the proposed interchange.

A questionnaire will be used to determine how many motorists would use the tollway if the interchange were constructed.

Both Zgonina and Regan observed that planned residential and commercial growth on both sides of the tollway should make the project financially feasible.

Regan also suggested the possibility of a meeting between village and tollway officials to discuss the matter, adding he does not know how much planning the ITC has put into the project.

This was the group's first meeting since last winter. Originally representatives from Inverness and Roselle were involved in the project, but Regan said they have apparently lost interest.

Knight In Shining Armor Stolen?

A knight in not so shining armor was reported missing to Schaumburg police yesterday.

The knight, who resides at the Sheffield Towne Club, 1000 Walnut Ln., Schaumburg was taken in a burglary at the club earlier this week.

Police said the knight was described as being about five feet six inches tall and having a 40-inch waist. Other identifying characteristics included slightly tarnished armor and a sword.

Flood Loss Payment May Come Within Two Weeks

Officials of the federal Small Business Administration (SBA) told victims of the Aug. 25 flood at a disaster assistance meeting Tuesday in Elk Grove Village they may receive low-cost loans within two weeks after applying for the aid.

Some 125 homeowners and businessmen from the Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg areas attended the meeting at Grove Junior High School to find out who was eligible for the loans and how to apply for them.

"Anyone who has suffered a loss or damage to property is eligible for the loans regardless of income or economic level," Freeman Christiansen, of the regional SBA office, said.

He said the assistance is available to homeowners, including mobile home owners, churches and nonprofit organizations as well as businessmen.

Both Cook and DuPage counties were declared a disaster area last week by the SBA, qualifying persons who suffered losses from flooding for low-interest, long-term loans to restore or replace damaged property not covered by insurance.

"The SBA loans are not like insurance, in that insurance pays only enough to replace property in like condition before it was damaged," Christiansen said. "With the SBA loan, a person can get the amount of money required to replace the damaged property if it can't be repaired."

Christiansen warned that upgrading property was not allowed, and the loan must be used to repair only flood dam-

Flooding Threat Delays Park Plans

Preliminary construction work will begin at six Hoffman Estates Park District sites this month, but concerns over potential flooding at High Point Lake will probably delay work in that area for some time, park commissioners said Tuesday.

The park board gave the okay for work to begin at Winston Knolls, Twinbrook Park, Cotton Wood Park, Blackhawk School and Armstrong School immediately. The improvements are part of a $675,000 bond issue approved by voters in June.

Park Board Pres. Tom Barber voiced concern over what can be done about flooding in the High Point area. Extensive development, including tennis courts are planned for that area. The park is at Glenlake and Hermitage roads.

"WE DON'T WANT to spend $100,000 for recreational fields there if they are going to be flooded all summer long."

This year's heavy rains have caused increased flooding at the low-lying park site.

Barber asked Howard Kessler, an architect with Kessler, Mercier and Lochner; and John Mackie, a civil engineer associated with the firm to examine the flooding problem and attempt to provide solutions before they plan any park facilities there.

Kessler said the solutions for the problem might be very costly. He estimated that dredging the lake to accept more storm water would probably cost $80,000 at least.

Park Commissioner Fred Weaver asked the architect to examine the feasibility of increasing the outlet pipes at High Point and raising the water level at other lakes in the area, such as Highland and the Twin Lakes. A special board meeting will be held at 7 p.m. next Tuesday to discuss all proposed park improvements in the district.

In other action the board approved the use of boats on North Twin Lake for the remainder of the year. Boating has been approved in several other park district lakes.

The board also approved the purchase of a 1972 Ford station wagon to be used also declined to comment, saying they would announce their plans when they are ready.

However, Robert Hall officials did note they are considering a number of sites in the Chicago area.

The Hoffman Estates center would be among the first Robert Hall Villages in the nation. One is slated to open this October in New Orleans, according to a July 10 article in Discount Store News, a trade publication. They are not to be run as typical discount stores, but instead the main stores and tenants are to handle merchandise of a higher price range than generally found in discount chains.

Along with apparel, the Robert Hall Villages generally are to include departments for prescriptions, cosmetics, candy, tobacco, stationery, luggage, books, home entertainment, juvenile furniture, toys, sporting goods, housewares, gift-

Airport Unit To Meet

Tonight members of Schaumburg airport feasibility study committee will meet to complete the first leg of a journey which will determine advisability of a municipally owned general aviation airport.

The committee will select one of two engineering consulting firms now vying for selection to perform the investigation.

The study is expected to determine if there is a need for an expanded general aviation airport in the village, to be part of a transportation center proposed by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Under consideration are Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff and Arnold Thompson Co. (in conjunction with Vickery-Wines Assoc.).

TWO-THIRDS OF THE study's cost, expected to be between $35,000 and $45,000, will come from the Federal Aviation Administration; one sixth of the fee will be paid by the Illinois Department of Aeronautics.

The remaining one-sixth of the cost will be paid by the village through proceeds of a revenue bond issue.

It will not limit itself to the question of expanding the now privately owned Schaumburg Airport but will also consider other sites in or annexable to the village.

In addition, the investigation will also include economic forecasts for the facility.

The consulting firm selected by the committee will be presented to the village board for approval Tuesday.

The airport study committee will meet in the Great Hall conference room at 8 p.m. tonight. Discussion is open to the public.

Mrs. Murphy, however, feels the consultants are aware of the "pro-growth" position of the village and will come up with what local officials want to hear.

"This study is a waste of money because it won't come up with proper information... it will be hidden," Mrs. Murphy added.

CEC MEMBER Betty Enbysk said if proper geological studies, maps, water tables and other information are produced through the study its cost would be worthwhile.

Trustee Peter Justen, village board liaison to CEC, was asked to determine if geological data will be incorporated in the proposed study.

Gary Crawford, another CEC member, suggested the Argonne study will be finished in time to allow consultants to incorporate its data into their work.

After selection of a consulting firm, expected tonight, an approximately three month wait for Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) funding is anticipated which would not permit the study to begin until well after completion of the Argonne survey.

Contractors Pay For Well Moving

Contractors for a well costing about $96,000 in the Knightsbridge area of Schaumburg are moving the well at their own expense.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher explained the well, as originally dug, produced water with a high enough sand content that it was damaging the pumping mechanism. The contractors then drilled deeper, but the problem persisted.

The well, originally drilled along Jones Road near Heather Lane, is to be moved to a new location, probably about 400 feet either north or west of the first site, said Atcher.

General contractor on the project, H. F. Mueller, has verbally agreed to relocate the well at no charge to the village, said Atcher. He also said the sand content in the water resulted from improper well function. While running the water for a while allowed it to clear, it damaged the pump facility, he said.

Conference For Flood Victims

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has urged officials of flood-damaged Chicago suburbs to be present Friday at a conference with state and federal officials.

The meeting has been called for 1 p.m. in the Village Hall of Western Springs.

"The President's declaration of the flooded areas as a disaster area opens the way for immediate federal grants to repair damaged public facilities," said Ogilvie.

"The personal participation of top officials of each of the government units which sustained damage will speed the grant program and help lead the way to full recovery."

Present for the meeting will be Dal Oshel, state director of civil defense, and Robert Connor, regional director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

Oshel said damage assessment teams of federal and state engineers will act immediately to substantiate damage reports of local government units.

The President Monday formally declared a disaster area in the suburban towns at the request of the governor. The declaration permits compensation for damage to roads and bridges, public buildings, and utility services, and for the cost of debris clearance.

HOMEOWNERS and businessmen have been urged to seek emergency help by applying to officials of the Small Business Administration from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily in the village halls of Lisle and Addison.

Connor, in explaining the President's action, said 1972 has been a record disaster year throughout the nation, with 35 major disaster areas, two more than in any comparable period in the past.

SBA Meets Slated At 3 Locations

Two more meetings are scheduled in the area tonight to inform victims of the recent suburban area flooding of help available from the Small Business Administration.

One is scheduled to begin at 7:30 in the Brentwood School auditorium, 260 W. Dulles Rd., Des Plaines; and the other at 8 p.m. at the Rolling Meadows City Hall, 3600 Kirchoff Rd.

A third meeting is also scheduled at 8 tonight, at the Roselle Village Hall, 31 S. Prospect, Roselle.

SBA representatives will be on hand at the meetings to discuss what flood relief is available, who is eligible for SBA loans, and how they may apply.

SBA assistance became available after much of the Chicago metropolitan area was declared a disaster area following the torrential rain and flooding of Aug. 25.

Two From Area Join Crusade

Dana Johnson of Buffalo Grove and Judy Najolia of Elk Grove Village will join more than 70 workers in the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy campaign, which begins Oct. 5.

Workers bring in about 60 per cent of the total funds raised by the annual drive. This year's goal is $35,700,000.

The Crusade supports community needs such as day care for children, vocational training for the handicapped, adoption for hard-to-place children, care for emotionally disturbed youngsters, and home nursing.

Johnson is the director of development for Child and Family Services, and Mrs. Najolia is assistant director of development at the Clearbrook Center, Rolling Meadows.

There Is A New Spiro T. Agnew

by STEVE GERSTEL

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — There is a new Spiro T. Agnew. The old one, the one that America knows best, was a tough, hard-hitting exponent of political polarization.

The new one, coined at the 1972 Republican National Convention, is a candidate of conciliation.

The remarkable transformation of Vice President Agnew was revealed at a news conference the morning after he was renominated as President Nixon's running-mate.

Only two years ago, Agnew was on the warpath, slashing at "radiclib" and castigating the national media, purging Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell of New York, singling out liberal Democrats for special ridicule, blasting protesters and, in the process, becoming what he calls the "cutting edge" in the 1970 elections.

Now, Agnew concedes that using the phrase "radiclib" was a mistake; that being the heavy in the congressional campaign was unfortunate; that he is much happier having climbed the few steps to a higher plateau of campaigning.

Agnew is coy about 1976 — an approach used by all politicians four years in advance — but there seems to be no question that he will seek the presidential nomination.

And the new format seems to be geared clearly to impressing those Republicans who were distraught by the campaign Agnew waged in 1970. That campaign was so repugnant to some that he was specifically asked to stay out of two major states, New York and Massachusetts.

Despite the deep-rooted change to the reelection campaign, dictated mostly by the nomination of George S. McGovern, Agnew has not shifted his long-held six years position on the issues.

The new Agnew is off on a new campaign. If he holds to his aims, he could emerge from the 1972 campaign as the "high road" candidate who did not provoke his natural enemies, the liberals, held his conservative constituency clearly marked the differences on the issues, and gave his aid to Republicans, conservatives and liberals alike, at every level.

Those would be strong credentials when the 1976 primaries begin.

Walker To Eye State Mismanagement

by JEFF SHELER

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Democrat Dan Walker, charging that the news media has been "dazzled" by administration press agents, has said he will soon reveal in detail where state government has gone wrong under Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

"I will, during this campaign, analyze the mismanagement by Ogilvie department by department, beginning with aeronautics and on through the alphabet to transportation and welfare," Walker said Tuesday at a news conference.

"I will show how inefficiency, waste or political influence — often all three — have characterized state government," he said.

He said a campaign task force would soon complete a detailed report of state mismanagement which he said he will reveal "in the coming weeks."

WALKER, WHO just completed a three-month jeep tour of most of Southern Illinois, said the next phase of his campaign will be to hit hard on the issues and confine most of his personal appearances to the more populated areas of the state.

"I will also carry this campaign to my opponent, for he and his band of 84 press agents have dazzled a handful of ordinarily reliable interpreters of state government," Walker said.

When asked who those interpreters were, Walker said, "although there have been some news stories of waste and mismanagement in the Ogilvie administration, reporters all over this state could have done more to dig out these types of incidents."

Walker, who early in his campaign said as governor he could trim some $500 million from the state budget, said he has already pinpointed $263 million in government waste.

WHEN ASKED FOR examples of waste and mismanagement, Walker referred to newspaper accounts alleging state officials and their families had used state-owned aircraft for personal and political business.

He accused Ogilvie of proposing construction of "wrong and unneeded" airports and highways and cited the Cross-town Expressway and the East-West Tollway extension in Chicago as examples.

Walker also accused Ogilvie of "storing up" announcements of publicly-funded projects for the home stretch of the campaign.

"I think it is shameful that the governor of Illinois — who should have been working for four years to serve all the people — is using his office now, in 1972, for personal goals," Walker said.

"He has stored up announcements of publicly funded projects for this autumn to win personal political advantage in the election year. I am up against this tawdry politics as well as the horde of patronage workers, and that is why the road remains a long one, and uphill," he said.

Free Auto Pollution Testing Slated

A special one-day program of free auto pollution testing will be held in Des Plaines at Maine Township West High School, Wolf Road and Oakton, Saturday, Sept. 16, from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

These tests conducted by the Chicago Lung Association (formerly The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County) take a few minutes and will let a car owner know if his car meets current vehicle exhaust emission standards.

Assisting with the car testing program in Des Plaines will be members of the Explorer Scout Post No. 25 under the leadership of their scoutmaster, Marvin Martin, 1763 Whitcomb. The Scout group is sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club.

"All car owners in this area should be sure to take advantage of this free service," said Phil Lindahl, Des Plaines environmental control officer. "The first step towards controlling air pollution is applying the knowledge and technology we now have. This auto pollution testing program gives us a chance to do just that."

The electronic infra-red exhaust emission analyzer to be used in the tests at Maine West measures a car's output of carbon monoxide and unburned hydrocarbons — two of the main constituents of air pollution caused by automotive transportation.

Each motorist will get a written report on his car's performance along with a list of suggestions on what is needed to bring it within compliance, if it does not pass.

Antique Auto Buff A Winner

by DAVE MAHSMAN
What's round and made from soybeans?
No, not a fake hamburger.
It's the steering wheel of Bob Hanselman's 1929 Ford Model A Oval-window Business Coupe.

Henry Ford was not a man to waste anything. Besides joining with George Washington Carver to make gearshift knobs and steering wheels from soybeans which were used in Fords well into the 1930s, floorboards of the cars were made from the crates used to ship engines from one Ford plant to another. That's what Hanselman says, anyway. And he ought to know.

Hanselman, who lives at 702 N. Vail Ave., Arlington Heights, is an antique auto buff. You know, one of those guys who spends all his spare time in the garage pounding, scraping and painting what was at one time considered a candidate for the junk yard.

IT ALL STARTED when Hanselman was only 15 years old, not even old enough to drive the 1931 Model A Deluxe Tudor he bought for $35. He said he had to hide the car for a year in his grandmother's garage before he could let his parents know about his purchase.

The car was finished in 1960, but Hanselman drove it only two years before tearing it down again. He said he has put some $2,000 into the car since he got it. And until four years ago, it was the only car he drove. The only shows he entered were strictly local.

Hanselman's big project started when he found the Oval-window Business Coupe in a barn near Boone, Iowa, in the mid '60s. At the time, the car was only the shell of a body and frame. He brought the car home in 1966. But Hanselman was drafted shortly after finishing school, so the car sat around for another two years.

It wasn't until last winter that Hanselman and some friends began to work on the car in sub-zero weather. He had spent five years searching throughout the country for new original parts, mostly found gathering dust in Ford dealers' garages. File cabinets are filled with material he gathered on the car.

HANSELMAN EXPLAINED the reason for his great pains. Only 96 of the cars were made with oval windows in the rear, and his is one of only six known in existence today. And for a car to be entered in shows, it must be restored to the same condition and specifications as when it rolled off the assembly line.

When Hanselman unfolds the story of the building of this car almost from scratch — he still hasn't been able to get license plates because he didn't get a title with the shell he bought in Iowa — and flips through the photo album which illustrates the story, his eyes shine. Even his large handlebar mustache seems to smile. And he can't talk fast enough.

The car wasn't finished until just hours before Hanselman was to show it in national competition in Green Bay, Wis., this spring. He gathered other enthusiasts there to help him finish the polishing and other details. And when judging was completed, Hanselman's car was awarded the title "Best in the Nation" by the Model A Restoration Club. The car's radiator bears a small oval reading "MARC of Excellence" to prove it.

"Now you know why people get all excited at these shows when somebody touches their cars," Hanselman said very seriously. "I don't even want to know how much I spent on this one. I threw all the bills into a box, and maybe some day 30 years from now when I don't have anything to do, I'll try to figure it out."

BESIDES THE money involved, all of Hanselman's spare hours were taken in advance. He said one necessary item in his hobby is a wife who is just as enthusiastic. Hanselman's is.

All the trouble has paid off. Besides the award at Green Bay, Hanselman's car has taken four first prizes and two best of show awards in the six competitions he has entered, including a first in his class at the Illinois State Fair. The next hurdle comes in October when Hanselman will go to Hershey, Pa., in an attempt to acquire the coveted senior national award.

"Hershey is the top," Hanselman said, adding that if he takes that award he will retire the car from further competition.

"Why try and hog all the stuff (awards)?" he asked. He said that he will keep the car and drive it when he takes it out of competition.

"I WANT TO HAVE some fun with the car."

But will that mark the end of Hanselman's auto restoration hobby? Not on your life.

Sitting in his garage right this moment is a 1928 Model A Phaeton (touring car) that was recently brought over from Norway, where it was imported in the 1930s. The car is one of the first 10 Model As ever made by Ford.

"I'm going to start that one this winter. It will probably take two years to finish. There's no rushing this one."

HIS HANDLEBAR MUSTACHE gives Bob Hanselman the look of an early motorist as he sits behind the soybean steering wheel of his 1929 Ford Model

A Oval-window Business Coupe The car has been a big prize winner for Hanselman this summer.

BEFORE TEMPERATURE gauges were placed on the dash board, motorists had to watch the thermometer on the radiator cap. If mercury reached the circle, the engine was overheating.

LICENSE PLATES issued the year Hanselman's car was built add a national touch to the car's authenticity.

IT SHAKES a little, but Hanselman has gotten his 1929 Model into like-new condition suitable for driving. He says he will drive the car more when he takes it out of competition.

Otto-Designer Of Olympic Stadium

Architecture On Display

The spectacular tent-like architecture of Frei Otto — now featured at the Summer Olympics — is on exhibit at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry, 57th Street and Lake Shore Drive, through Sept. 24.

The exhibition is housed in a large translucent tent suspended from a 50-foot V-shaped mast which has been erected in front of the museum.

The tent was especially designed for the exhibition devoted to the work of Otto, a German architect noted for his dramatic and innovative tent-like structures for outdoor theaters, exhibition areas, temporary construction shelters, and sports arenas.

The Chicago exhibition is being made possible under a grant from the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies in the Fine Arts.

Otto's huge tent-like structures of steel and spun glass are being used to cover one side of the 80,000-capacity Olympic Stadium and two nearby sports areas in Munich. The $52-million architectural showpiece is the world's largest roof.

The translucent white membrane of the tent at the museum filters sunlight, is impervious to ultraviolet rays, and is water repellent. At night, when illuminated from within, it looks like a strange giant glowing bird.

The structure consists of a prestressed tensile membrane carried by a main mast and two smaller masts held by steel suspension cables to anchorages in the ground. It covers an area of approximately 64 by 36 by 21 feet, or about 2,300 square feet.

In addition to the tent, the exhibition includes 80 panels covering Otto's work with mast and cable-supported tent membranes, retractable roofs, pneumatic membranes, lattice domes, and other projects.

Admission to the exhibition is free. The exhibit will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays and holidays.

SPECTACULAR TENTWORK is now on display at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry, in an exhibition of the architecture of Frei Otto of Germany. Otto is the man who designed the massive tent-like structures currently in prominence at the Summer Olympics in Munich.

Little Church In Vale Hosts A Reunion

NASHUA, Iowa (UPI) — They came from as far away as California and Louisiana to sit in the rain in front of a makeshift stage.

Old men in flannel hats, their wives in cotton print dresses, sat on wooden benches next to young bearded men with wire-framed glasses whose wives wore long skirts and shawls.

Not much in common, except most of them were married here in The Little Brown Church in the Vale.

The church is famous for its weddings, and every year it hosts a reunion for its alumni. About 1,000 couples came from all over Iowa and 10 other states on a summer Sunday this year to listen to inspirational singing, and to troop along the narrow aisles of the century-old frame building.

THE LITTLE BROWN CHURCH was made famous by a song written three years before its construction. William Pitts, a young man visiting his girl friend in nearby Fredericksburg, was inspired by the spot where the church now stands to write "Come to the Church in the Wildwood" in 1857. When he returned in 1863 to teach at nearby Bradford Academy, he was amazed to find the church under construction.

Pitts first sang the "Wildwood" song at the dedication the following year. A singing duo, The Weatherwax Brothers, took the song as their theme and popularized it on the Lyceum and Chautauqua circuits.

After World War I, returning soldiers started bringing their brides to the church.

The Rev. M. R. Hinds, the present pastor, said the influence of the song was compounded by the fact there was no waiting period then. No blood tests were required, and a couple could go to the Chickasaw County Courthouse in New Hampton for a license and up to the church to be married the same day.

THE PEAK YEAR for weddings at The Little Brown Church in the Vale was 1922, when about 1,800 couples were married. Then laws were passed requiring blood tests and waiting periods for licensing in the state, and as Rev. Mr. Hinds said, "The bottom dropped out."

He said now it is a sense of tradition that brings back many young people whose parents and grandparents were married in the church. In addition, many couples come for sentimental second marriages.

While the church and its pastor belong to the First Congregational Church, most faiths are represented in the wedding register.

Why Little Brown Church? Its frame exterior with sheared-off spire doesn't stand out from the highway that passes right by its door. The setting is idyllic, but creeping civilization has impinged even on that since Pitts wrote the famous song.

Austere daguerreotypes of the early pastors and of Abraham Lincoln line the walls, and the hard wooden seats and cramped interior hark back to Iowa's pioneer days.

But this is one of the most famous churches in the country, and the people sitting in the rain on their reunion Sunday must have been moved by more than aged wood — not only to be married at The Little Brown Church in the first place, but to return year after year.

"It's not a beautiful church," the Pastor said. "People come in here and say, 'Oh, what a beautiful little church,' but it's not beautiful. Any other church in Iowa that had a song like this would have the same thing." But it exudes sentimentality and tradition — and it is romantic to come back to the church where you, or your parents or grandparents, exchanged vows. It's a charming bit of old America, too.

Elderly Citizens Want To Know More About FIND

During the past month the elderly citizens of the area who receive Social Security benefits have been mailing in a card which they receive in their monthly check indicating they want to know more about receiving food assistance through a federal program termed FIND. FIND is a result of the concerns of the delegates to the White House Conference on Aging to initiate "action programs to rehabilitate the malnourished aged."

FIND is a major campaign initiated by the federal government which will try to locate and assist eligible older persons to sign up for benefits under the Food Stamp Program. The campaign is to be completed by Dec. 15.

The Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County has been contacted by Sandra Tait, field project manager located at 308 Julian, Waukegan, phone 336-4590, to assist in recruiting volunteers or volunteer groups who will help finish the project. Volunteers are needed to follow up on the cards returned in the mail either by phone or if necessary by a visit. The cards are returning at a good rate but the need for volunteers is still there.

Volunteer training programs are being held in Wilmette in September and one more training session is expected to take place in the Northwest suburbs. The local project geographic area is all of Lake County, McHenry County, Kane County, DuPage County and North Cook County (as far south as Park Ridge and west to So. Elgin, and Fox River Heights (includes St. Charles, Geneva, & Batavia).

Women's groups such as sorority, guild, civic organizations have responded to the call, and the assignment is well suited to the homemaker's schedule as it includes some work by phone and it is to be completed by mid-December. It is hoped that some men's groups would also be willing to take part in this program of volunteering as some of the elderly are men, and the work can be handled in the evenings and over the weekends if necessary.

Again, it will help if some of the volunteers are bi-lingual, primarily German and Spanish, but the main requirements are patience, understanding, and discretion.

As the new school year opens, the Volunteer Service Bureau Branch offices are opening up, and as the bureau services expand it is increasingly apparent that volunteerism is becoming an aspect of life that many people have always made room for in their schedule through room mother programs, library volunteer programs, enrichment interest groups, hospitals, registrations at the local schools, board members of PTA's, park districts, schools, and the list goes on and on. Other people are becoming increasingly aware of the wide variety of opportunities in volunteer work and deliberately seek out the one that most appeals to them. The bureau encourages all types of volunteering and, such as in the FIND project, encourages individuals or groups to go directly to the organization utilizing the volunteer's time and talent. Recognizing that the population covered by the bureau is about 272,000 and climbing even higher, the bureau sees it's role as encouraging and fostering volunteer programs of good caliber, publicizing them, and understandably not encouraging or expecting that all or even any of the referring takes place through the bureau offices.

As the Project FIND unfolds it is apparent that expediency is of utmost importance. The project has a timetable of training in September, action in October and November, and termination in December. The Project FIND hopes to bring about the establishment of a more local Food Stamp Headquarters than the one located in the city of Chicago. The rate of return of the cards from the Social Security mailing indicates that there is a real need. Do you have some time to aid the elderly — either of your family or simply the family of man? Call 336-4590 and ask for FIND.

Plan Celebration Of The Holy Cross

A centuries-old ceremony for Greek Orthodox Christians, the celebration of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 17 in McCormick Place, Chicago. The observance will also mark the golden jubilee of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of the Americas.

All Greek Orthodox Churches in the Chicago area will be closed so members may attend the services, including St. John the Baptist in Des Plaines under the Rev. Manousos Lionikis. P. K. Ladas of Arlington Heights is on the working committee for the ceremony.

Bishop Timotheos, head of the Greek Orthodox Church in the Midwest, will officiate. Mayor Richard Daley, Gov. Richard Ogilvie, and representatives of other Christian faiths have been invited.

The ceremony's highlight will be the casting of a golden cross into Lake Michigan, an ancient custom of seafaring Greeks. The cross symbolizes death when it submerges, and resurrection when a youthful diver retrieves it.

Competition between divers represents man's effort to find salvation. It is believed that good fortune will follow the triumphant diver and his family in the ensuing year.

Time In Hospitals Declines

The average time for staying in an Illinois hospital in 1971 decreased by three-tenths of a day, and the average cost-increase percentage is slightly down, according to the Illinois Hospital Association.

In 1971 the average length of hospital confinement was 8.8 days, compared to 9.1 in 1970.

The average cost of staying in a hospital increased by 11.3 per cent, from $743 to $836. Between 1969 and 1970 it increased 11.5 per cent. Average cost per day in 1971 was $95.03.

The national average for length of stay was 8 days, with an average cost of $92.31 a day.

The improvement of hospital wages is mainly responsible for the rise in hospital costs. There is also a higher ratio in the number of employees to patients.

Do-It-Yourself

Patching damaged areas of wall and floor coverings is an art that can save many dollars. The alternative to the patch is an entirely new surface.

The work of patching is not hard and it is only part of the job. The other, and important part, is getting the right material. With foresight you can do this right from the beginning.

Save remnants. Odds and ends of wall paper and linoleum are always left when the installation is complete. Put away some good pieces. If you are using the popular square asphalt or vinyl tile, put the extras away.

If it is a discontinued pattern it is worth-while to buy a few extra.

IF YOU ARE really farsighted you will take a piece of the new wallpaper and hang it out of the way in a closet. The paper will weather along with the covering on the walls. If you have to make a patch you will find that the new material has faded to the same extent as the old.

Use a sharp knife or a razor blade to cut away the damaged area of the old wallpaper. Cut your patch slightly larger than the damaged area. This will allow you to move it around until you have matched the pattern on the wall. Then apply paste and smooth it out.

If you have a sure hand you may be able to cut the patch so that the edges of the new meet the edges of the old exactly. For most of us it is best to allow the new material to overlap at the edges.

Linoleum and other floor coverings must have a patch that fits perfectly. Overlapping edges cause ridges that can be felt beneath the foot and which gather dirt. Space between the edges fill with dirt.

Cut a pattern out of cardboard. Make the edges straight and make the patch a shape easy to duplicate, a rectangle or a square. Make it large enough to cover the area you are patching.

USE THE PATTERN when you cut away the old material and when you cut a patch from new material. With straight sides and straight corners you shouldn't have trouble duplicating.

Use a linoleum knife and score the old material several times to make sure you have cut all the way through. This will prevent the surrounding material from being damaged when you pull up the old piece.

Clean out the opening. Dirt and remnants of old linoleum must all be removed. If there was a felt underlay, leave the old one in or replace it if it came up with the linoleum.

Check the patch for size. It should fit without buckling. Spread linoleum paste and press the patch into place. Wipe away the paste that oozes up.

Put a weight on the patch to make it flush or roll with an old rolling pin. When the patch is a couple of weeks old and as hard as the rest of it, rub it with steel wool to remove that new shine.

If you cannot match the material, use a contrasting color and cut it in a special shape — diamond or triangle, for example — as though it had been planned that way. In front of a sink, a long rectangle will look like a runner.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What are the dangers of living without a pacemaker when you have a heart block? My father has had a pacemaker for two years and is wondering what would happen if he had it removed when the batteries wear out. In the past month it has changed position and is punching through the skin causing a large protrusion. His doctor said he'd never seen that happen before, but it is not dangerous.

Also, could he have his heart condition treated with vitamin E? My father takes an anticoagulant to keep his blood thin. Do you think vitamin E would help this?

Dear Reader — The kind of heart block you're talking about is associated with a very slow heart rate unless a heart pacemaker is used. The lower chambers normally beat very slowly unless they are stimulated by the upper chambers. Since the lower chambers are responsible for pumping the blood out through the body, when this happens the pulse is very slow. If it's too slow, there won't be enough blood to the brain, and this can cause fainting, convulsions or the heart can even go into a form of standstill or abnormal rhythm. This can be dangerous and can even cause death.

The purpose of the pacemaker is to provide a constant stimulus to the lower chambers of the heart so that the heart rate will be fast enough to pump enough blood for the whole body. Put simply, if the heart pacemaker stops working the heart will become very slow again, which can cause any of the things I mentioned above, including convulsions and death.

Literally, that heart pacemaker is saving your father's life. Removing it would be the same thing as pulling the plug on life itself. There is no way that vitamin E will replace the function of his electrical pacemaker. It's the same thing as asking if vitamin E could replace a burnt-out fuse in an electric circuit.

Interestingly enough, years ago some enthusiasts thought vitamin E would be useful in preventing clotting of the blood but, after extensive clinical trials, most reputable scientists came to the conclusion that it was of no particular value for this purpose.

YOUR FATHER will probably do very well as long as his pacemaker functions. There are hundreds of people who use these and they have literally saved these individuals' lives. It is no secret, so I don't mind mentioning that Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court has worn a pacemaker for a number of years. This has been mentioned repeatedly in the news and it serves to point out that individuals with the pacemaker can fill an important function and live a full life with the aid of such a device. Let me caution you again, though, under no circumstances encourage your father to think that he can get along without his pacemaker. This could be a life-and-death decision.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

The poet who wrote, "Beneath the bludgeonings of chance, my head is bloody but unbowed," probably was not a bridge player.

If he was, he would have to be a pretty good one to keep those bludgeonings from really hurting him.

West cashes two spade tricks and shifts to a diamond. South has looked over dummy by this time and seen that, assuming trumps don't break 3-0, he will be able to draw trumps and try the club finesse for an overtrick.

He plays a high trump and bludgeonings start. East shows out! He has to lose a trump trick and cannot afford to lose a club also.

If he takes the club finesse he will lose that trick but he does not have to. West has the three trumps and he can use an elimination play to catch West in an end play.

South simply takes the two high trumps and his good spade. Then he plays out the rest of the high diamonds. West's best defense is to refuse to ruff, but this does him no good. South simply throws West in with his high trump and forces West to make the losing lead of a

Sen. George McGovern Called 'Negative Market Factor'

by DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Overzealous people in campaigns do things that are wrong." — Richard Nixon.

The President is so right. It seems likely from the way the campaign is starting out that the 1972 presidential race will set some sort of record for mud-slinging.

GOP National Chairman Robert Dole has accused George McGovern of launching a "hate campaign" by comparing some of Nixon's actions with Hitler. Meanwhile, the Republicans have been landing a few low verbal blows themselves.

When McGovern was on Wall Street last week, an overzealous Nixon supporter in the financial community called the Democratic candidate a "n—m—f—."

On second thought, why not just come right out and say it? He called McGovern a "negative market factor."

WELL, GRANTED that stockbrokers habitually use salty language, and granted that politics does tend to go to excessive invective. That still doesn't excuse name-calling of that ilk.

After all, McGovern is a United States senator and the current leader of a major political party, both of which entitle him to a certain amount of respect.

Even an ordinary citizen would be offended by such an epithet. Certainly if anyone ever calls me a "negative market factor," he had better smile when he says it.

I telephoned one of my sources at McGovern headquarters and asked if the Democrats intended to file a complaint with the Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

"SINCE THE individual involved had no formal connection with the campaign, we can't do anything about it," he replied. "But this type of smear, even if instigated by a private citizen, cannot be left unanswered.

"McGovern already has been subjected to ugly rumors about his war record. And now here's an out-and-out case of character assassination.

"This slur is especially vicious in that it insinuates that McGovern is the kind of man who would take capital gains out of the mouths of sweet, innocent stock market plungers."

Asked how the Democrats proposed to go about countering the slanderous innuendo, my source said there had been some discussion about forming a Speculators for McGovern Committee.

After each major McGovern speech, particularly those dealing with economic issues, committee members would flood their brokers with "buy" orders, thus touching off a market rally and changing the candidate into a positive factor.

"It could be better than a campaign contribution," my source said.

Hyperkinetic Children Need Help Early

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital, in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital, known for its programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

Children who are restless, easily distracted from what they are doing and have difficulty concentrating may be what physicians call hyperkinetic or hyperactive children.

Kurt Glaser, M.D., associate professor of pediatrics and clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Maryland, explains that hyperkinetic children are minimally brain damaged but the condition cannot be diagnosed by brain tests; rather, it is concluded by the behavior of the child.

"The hyperkinetic child is one who doesn't perform in school because something inhibits him from learning or behaving. The child is in constant motion which prohibits him from performing tasks or listening to something. He walks around and wiggles around in his chair all the time.

"The pre-school child," he continued, "of course isn't put to the test of forced behavior but his hyperactivity can be recognized also. He is more jumpy and active than the normal child. Sometimes a parent will say that the child, as an infant, almost jumped out of his parents arms while being fed. Since the hyperkinetic child's eye muscle coordination is poor he may spill his milk or drop his food. This can easily be mistaken as bad behavior which it is not.

"WE OFTEN FIND, after evaluation by the physician that the hyperkinetic child is the awkward child — the one who falls over his feet or is all thumbs. This child also has trouble writing — he may scribble because his eye muscle coordination prevents him from doing well."

According to Dr. Glaser the hyperactive child is usually of normal intelligence and he is able to learn as well as other children even though he has difficulties since he can't sit still or can't eliminate outside stimuli long enough to concentrate. "Unless we recognize and help the hyperactive child early — by the time they're in second, third or fourth grade they're falling behind in learning."

Parents of hyperactive children should be told, says Dr. Glaser, that there is a good chance the child will outgrow his hyperactivity during puberty. "It is well to advise the parents that this is not automatic. If the child — with his lack of ability to concentrate or sit still is criticized by his teacher and is made fun of by other children — he will develop psychological problems which continue after his hyperactivity goes away.

"If a child shows school difficulties, even in early years like nursery school, and the child is 'tearing the place up' or can't get along with other children he should have an evaluation — not just be punished. The parent should go to an educator, psychologist or psychiatrist and ask the professional to look at the child and help determine if he is hyperkinetic or not."

Decay Menaces Suburbs, Too

It is one of the great ironies of the Northwest suburbs that growing and enthusiastic communities such as these are often marred by depressing and unimaginative downtown shopping areas.

Indeed, it has become axiomatic in some suburban towns that large scale shopping centers such as Woodfield and Randhurst draw the most business while local shops are used by customers for last minute or late-hour shopping.

In many cases, downtown shopping areas are bleak and unvaried. They reflect the business attitudes of a time gone by when these suburban towns were remote from the city and when super shopping centers were undreamed of. Obviously, times have changed as have the needs — and demands — of the suburban shopper.

Some communities have made serious attempts to liven and enhance their core shopping areas; Palatine's downtown area is generally pleasant and agreeable; in Des Plaines a major downtown renewal effort is underway with strong city support.

And recently, Arlington Heights officials unveiled a new effort to revitalize the center of town and to lure shoppers to the downtown section with eye-appealing malls and better parking facilities.

In many ways, the newest effort in Arlington Heights offers a lesson to many villages and cities in the suburbs. For example, the assessed valuation of the downtown Arlington Heights business district in 1964 was $3,338,018. In 1971 the assessed valuation had only increased to slightly over $4 million. That small increase describes a stagnant and depressing growth rate and a meager understanding of the elements which make a town interesting to live in.

Similarly, downtown areas of Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling are blighted either in their capacity to meet the needs of casual shoppers or in their appeal to passersby to stop and tarry awhile.

We believe clean, interesting and diverse downtown areas are well within the reach of suburban towns, and further, that new core areas would create not only new business but a sense of community and identity long seen lacking in much of the suburbs.

The Arlington Heights village plan, if properly implemented, could do much to bring the community together and to offer residents a better town in which to live. We are encouraged by this effort and urge full support for its completion.

Particularly, we urge the support of the business community. Downtown businessmen have a serious obligation to their own central district. In many cases, that obligation has not been met.

Downtown blight is not restricted to the large metropolitan cores alone. Core city decay is as near as the closest uninterested and slothful shopkeeper or the landowner who thinks malls and one-way streets are unnecessary frills.

Indeed, the best description of downtown suburban decay comes from one planner's appraisal of our shopping areas. "The core areas have not kept up with the growth of the suburbs," he said. "And if it's not stopped, the decay will eventually take in everything that is new and good in the suburbs."

A Measure Of Freedom

One of the basic rights which Americans take for granted, yet which is nowhere directly mentioned in the Constitution or the Bill of Rights, is the right to travel abroad or to leave the country permanently.

It is not merely the rights of free speech and press, or the ultimate power of the ballot in the hands of the citizen, that distinguishes between democracies and totalitarian systems.

It is the right of any fed-up citizen to bug out for good and all any time he doesn't like the way the country is going or thinks he can find a better life somewhere else.

In a recent book on Vietnam war resisters who have fled to Canada, a number of the deserters or draft evaders remarked upon the ridiculous ease with which they crossed the border as if this were one more proof of stupidity in Washington.

It did not dawn on them that the very simplicity of foreign travel for Americans, particularly travel to our nearest neighbors, Canada and Mexico, undercut much of their allegations about U.S. "imperialism."

To be sure, dictatorships have often found it useful to rid themselves of dissidents or those they considered undesirable, but it has always been for a price. We have only to look to Cuba for a modern model.

There, until the Castro government found it convenient to stop further emigration, those who wished to leave had to place themselves on the list of "gusanos," or worms, and in a political and social limbo.

After many long months, those fortunate enough to be permitted aboard the one daily plane to Miami could take with them little more than the clothes on their backs. All their property and wealth had been confiscated by the government.

Much the same thing is happening in Russia today. Jews who want to leave that other workers' paradise to emigrate to Israel have been required to pay an exit fee of nearly $1,000.

Now on top of that, a new tax has been levied on Jews holding academic degrees, ranging from $5,400 for a teacher to $23,500 for a person with a university doctorate.

Whether the tax is seen as an effort to discourage an intellectual "brain drain" or as a form of vindictiveness or, along with the exit fee, as merely a source of revenue for the Soviet government makes little difference.

It is one more practice which separates the indecent governments of this world from the decent.

Hurrah! Track Is Closed

I unfolded my copy of the Herald this morning, and decided it was a "red letter" day for me. Your article on the front page about the Arlington race track having finished its season yesterday was the source of my glee. As far as I'm concerned, the racing season at Arlington is one gigantic nuisance.

For us, and I'm sure for other families living in the shadow of the track, racing season means timing working hours, doctor's appointments, family get-togethers, etc. around the schedule of the starting time and the last race.

The three evenings a week that I must get to work at 6:30, I have had to change my route from driving north on Wilke Road to Palatine Road, to going east on Central Road all the way to Wolf, which is considerably out of my way, but cuts driving time in half compared to trying to get through the traffic jam caused by the cars leaving the race track. Of course it has been even more interesting this year, due to Central Road being torn up for repair around Arlington Heights Road, and being down to a double lane of rather precarious driving, to say the least.

If I had to choose my pet peeve of the racing season, I guess it would be the few times I was hopeful enough to think that most of the cars had left the track, and upon attempting to take the direct route up Wilke Road, getting held up immediately at the Kirchoff intersection, while the traffic policeman allowed streams of cars to flow through, and then having the same process repeated at Euclid, and again at the track entrance. After waiting 15 or 20 minutes so far, and finally getting my turn to proceed beyond this point, you guessed it — we are now held up by the train, which has finally loaded up its cars with racing buffs.

I guess if there's any point at all to my complaint, it's simply this: For a family like ours, dependent upon the husband getting home in time to watch the kids, so the wife can get to work on time, we applaud the end of the racing season, and we cannot see why it's more important to be so concerned about getting a bunch of people out of a parking lot at record speed, when these people have obviously spent a day in relaxation, doing something they enjoyed, with no concern whatsoever for the local residents who are either returning from, or trying to get to the place where they earn their livelihood.

Incidentally, I guess I didn't mention that the route my husband must take to get home from work is Palatine Road to Wilke Road and south, past . . . the Arlington Race Track.

Semantics: Is It Republic Or Democracy?

While going through the personal effects of my late father who graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1928, I found one of the training manuals that was used by the government to teach the cadets citizenship. Perhaps its contents will be of interest to some of your readers:

"Citizenship: Prepared under direction of the Chief of Staff, TM 2000-25. Democracy: A government of the masses. Authority derived through mass meeting or any other form of direct expression. Results in mobocracy. Attitude toward property is communistic-negating property rights. Attitude toward law is that the majority shall impose their will to regulate, whether it be based upon deliberation or governed by passion, prejudice, and impulse, without restraint or regard to the consequences. Results in demagogism, license, agitation, discontent, and anarchy."

"Republic: Authority is derived through the election by the people of public officials best fitted to represent them. Attitude toward property is respect for laws and individual rights, and a sensible economic procedure. Attitude toward law is the administration of justice in accord with fixed principles and established evidence, with a strict regard to consequences. Avoids the dangerous extreme of either tyranny or mobocracy. Results in statesmanship, liberty, reason, justice, contentment and progress. Is the standard form of government throughout the world."

"Democracy is the direct rule of the people and has been repeatedly tried without success. Our Constitutional fathers, familiar with the strength and weakness of both autocracy and democracy, with fixed principles definitely in mind, defined a representative form of government as a republic. They made a very marked distinction between a republic and a democracy and said repeatedly and emphatically that they had founded a republic."

As I looked at the yellowed pages of TM 2000-25 I could not help but wonder why, 15 years after graduating from the academy, my father was called upon to serve during World War II to make the world safe for "democracy."

Also, I could not help wondering why Red China, when everyone knows it is a Communist dictatorship, is officially referred to as the "People's Republic of China," while Nationalist China is officially known as the "Republic of China." Also I would like to know why North Vietnam is known as the "Peoples Democratic Republic of North Vietnam."

Isn't there some sort of contradiction in all of this — or were the young men who attended West Point in 1928 being lied to by their government?

Mrs. Noah F. Glass
Mount Prospect

Let's Plan First

There is no way that I am qualified to argue the pros and cons of dropping the township concept.

What I would like to point out, though, is what I consider an analogy to this being pushed into something without more comprehensive study.

When the Northwest suburbs were small, the leadership fought housing developments and business plants moving into the area. Obviously this was not a realistic or necessarily wise decision. The more progressive people moved into the area and allowed large corporations to develop homes and plants in the natural low lands. The older residents time and again warned about the problems they would create. Everyone laughed. After all what do those "Old Farmers" know? These old farmers knew that you don't fool mother nature and get away with it.

Now are we again leaving ourselves open to more floods? Floods of problems? Are more unsuspecting people going to be hurt?

P. Schwolow
Palatine

P.S. Maybe we should develop our Lincoln County first. Plan it with the thought of eliminating the township concept.

A Shopping Cart Full

After reading R. Sperling's letter, "Don't Extend Butcher's Hours," I only have this to say:

Evidently she never had to take three small children shopping (two of them have to ride in the shopping cart). Where can we put the groceries?

Secondly, the butchers I know bring home meat from work. Now that's convenience.

Is Any Peace Better Than None At All?

by RAY CROMLEY

Dr. Henry Kissinger did not make his quickie trip to Saigon because of a breakthrough at the Paris peace talks on Vietnam.

It can be said with authority this meeting with President Thieu of South Vietnam had been arranged before Kissinger's secret session with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho in Paris. The Kissinger second-day meeting with Thieu, advertised as "unexpected," had also been arranged in advance.

But recently captured documents reveal North Vietnamese commanders in the South have been ordered to make preparations for an early cease-fire. They are to divide their troops into two categories. One group would stay above-ground and available for movement back to whatever cease-fire lines are decided on.

But selected cadre from each unit are to make preparations for going underground, and to stay behind when "all" North Vietnamese troops officially march to the agreed cease-fire areas.

At the same time, men close to the secret Paris talks say the North Vietnamese meeting with Kissinger in Paris have not modified their stiff surrender demands in the slightest. They still insist on a coalition government dominated by Communists, an American-arranged throwout of Thieu, complete U.S. withdrawal from Indochina and an end to U.S. aid for Saigon.

Mr. Nixon is still holding out against any give-in or face-saving compromise with Hanoi which would amount to giving the Communists what they demand. But this Nixon determination may not last for long.

Kissinger did discuss new possibilities with Thieu in Saigon. Time is running short before election day. Despite the public opinion polls showing him the heavy favorite, Mr. Nixon is nervous about November, remembering past upsets.

Therefore Mr. Nixon has a choice to make. He may decide soon that any sort of a peace is better than no peace at all. He may decide to hold firm with his present course. He may attempt to straddle.

Some men close to the White House believe that what Mr. Nixon does will be determined by Sen. George McGovern's strength over the next month. If the South Dakotan's popularity rises sharply, and the electoral vote of key states seems in doubt, then Mr. Nixon, these men expect, will come up with new proposals more to Hanoi's liking.

The North Vietnamese seem to hold a similar view. Hanoi's representatives abroad have informed associates and Communist leaders in Western Europe, Asia and elsewhere they are convinced Mr. Nixon believes he must have a settlement by October to be absolutely sure of winning the presidential election in November. They have told these contacts in foreign lands they are going to wait Mr. Nixon out — wait for him to surrender to their demands with some face-saving "compromise" formula.

The attitude of the North Vietnamese in the secret Paris sessions with Kissinger tends to confirm these reports. Le Duc Tho and his associates are tougher, more fixed in their attitudes even than in the past, if that is possible.

Interestingly, it is not the cocky, almost sneering attitude of the sessions which followed Kissinger's trip to the Soviet Union. Then, the North Vietnamese were patronizing and offended Kissinger so deeply he found it most difficult to control his anger in private when he returned to the United States. The North Vietnamese are polite and courteous enough in these latest secret talks.

But they are firm, and appear certain they will get their way in the end, or so it seems to some men close to the picture.

EDITORIAL: Years of neglect and bad planning helped bring on the suburbs' flooding crisis.

Business Today

by LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Paperhangers" cost American retailers and banks nearly $1 billion a year.

A paperhanger in police parlance is not a craftsman who refinishes the walls of your rooms, he's a professional passer of bad checks. Traveling alone or in pairs, paperhangers hit a town or a neighborhood, blitz the stores and "hang up" checks for thousands of dollars, then skip town.

Precautionary systems that require persons presenting checks to be photographed or thumbprinted hold no terrors for the paperhanger. After the fact identification doesn't bother him in the least. He is aware that he is known to the police, but he also knows that he has to be caught in the act to be in any real danger of jail.

A number of security companies have sprung up across the land to do just that — catch paperhangers in the act of cashing the phony check. They use the electronic computer and a carefully developed identification file to do it.

One such firm, Telecredit, Inc., of Los Angeles, has nabbed, 7,200 bad check passers. The firm also has collected millions of dollars on bad checks passed by amateur deadbeats.

TELECREDIT OPERATES only in California. It hopes to expand nationally but admits that won't be easy because it takes more than a computer network to trap paperhangers. It takes a detailed file on known offenders, including their driver license numbers, real or phony, and information on their modus operandi.

For example, when two women tried to cash payroll checks at a Los Angeles supermarket, a Telecredit check revealed that the checks were drawn on an account that had been closed out for months.

In another case when a paperhanger realized he had been caught, he grabbed the bad check back from the store cashier and swallowed it. He was convicted because the judge allowed as evidence the printout from the Telecredit computer showing the check to have been bad.

"Bad check losses to paperhangers and 'deadbeats' are accelerating," said Lee Ault III, president of Telecredit. "The hidden camera and hidden fingerprinting device do discourage the small local amateur check passer. They are afraid of after-the-fact identification. It's the traveling pro that gives the big trouble."

Supermarkets suffer the heaviest losses, Ault said, and can least afford it since they operate on net profit margins of less than 2 per cent.

"Do you realize," he asked, "that a supermarket must ring up $1,500 in sales to offset the loss of cashing a $30 bad check? It takes more than 100 customers to 'produce' that much in sales."

Ault said Telecredit's system has helped many supermarket chains. He quoted the president of the Alexander chain in Los Angeles as saying installation of the system had cut bad check losses 50 per cent for the chain as a whole and 80 per cent in some stores."

The plan costs stores about 40 cents for each dollar recovered or saved, Ault said.

Ault said Telecredit and other companies with similar operations across the land also have a deterrent effect on bad check passing.

"The paperhangers learn which stores have such devices and, not being stupid, they avoid them."

Business Profit—Boon For Consumer

by LEA TONKIN

A businessman's profit also means a boon for consumers, according to Rolland M. "Rollie" Reed of Arlington Heights. He is a manager of sales for the construction equipment division of International Harvester Co.

Chalk it up to the effects of Phase II controls of profits in relation to prices, or a lack of understanding, or the desire to chuck the free enterprise system. The result is a widespread mistrust of the business emphasis on profit, Reed said.

Is there something unwholesome about earning a hefty profit? "Of course not," he said. "Profit sparks our economy."

Several popular myths are floating around on the evils of profit-making, Reed contends. He counters each of these myths with an explanation of the essential nature of profits.

MYTH NUMBER ONE: Once a business has been around a few years, profits automatically come rolling in to the happy entrepreneurs. "There is nothing automatic about earning a profit," said Reed. He described profit — or loss — as the difference between what a business takes in and what it pays out, sometimes measured in terms of earnings on investment.

"Profit isn't earned easily," Reed continued. "There is a lot of evidence, as in the period 1935-1939 when over half of all corporations reported a loss on their operations. Slump periods since then have also seen a high rise in business failures."

The continuing search for profit is essential for survival of a business, according to Reed. This applies to newer firms as well as well-established leaders in a given field.

Take Reed's business, for example.

Rolland M. Reed

"We're working with a basic unit — a cubic yard of dirt," he said. "This year, all the major manufacturers of heavy construction equipment are experiencing an increase in sales of approximately 15 per cent."

"THERE WAS A pent-up demand for this equipment in the private sector of the economy as users adopted a wait-and-see attitude," Reed continued. Now there is a more positive economic outlook among equipment users.

Sales of dozers, tractors, scrapers and other earth moving equipment have soared this year. The construction of highways, sewer and water facilities will top the $20 billion mark this year, predicts the national F. W. Dodge Construction Outlook. Increased dam construction is expected to add to this market.

Clearing a profit in the earth moving industry would appear to be a cinch, given this favorable outlook. Knowing that public works projects are used by the federal government as "pump priming" when the economy reverses into a slump, onlookers might believe profitability and success are sure bets for Reed's business.

This myth is enhanced by the notion that high price tags mean high profits, according to Reed. The average price for heavy construction equipment in the International Harvester lines is $44,000.

PLANNING FOR profit, however, is essential to the continued survival of a business, Reed says. Merely keeping up with payments and commitments from day to day does not allow for healthy profits or the base for future expansion into a stronger business.

Forecasting is only one third of this profit planning activity. The real test is the attempt to create and maintain results, Reed said. Collecting facts, examining alternatives, deciding on a course of action and implementing the plan take on a sense of urgency for a company's survival.

The five strategic force components of profit must be considered: price; volume; variable costs (material, labor and overhead); fixed costs; and profit mix.

For example, labor costs and productivity can drastically alter a company's profit picture. Reed said businesses have been forced to pay increased attention to efficiency and productivity as compensation per man hour rose 109 per cent in the period 1953 through 1970.

"Hard work, good fortune and an occasional prayer aren't obsolete in the pursuit of profit," Reed advised. A systematic plan for profit loads the odds for the planner, however.

MYTH NUMBER TWO, according to Reed, goes something like this: High profit margins hurt the consumer. This either results from poor quality goods and services or a monopolistic business in which a business can charge any price it chooses.

Not true, according to Reed. "Profit is made by continually finding ways to give the customer more value," he said. "It means learning to do things better, making them cheaper to sell."

"It is this creative drive for profit that has built our standard of living in this country," he continued. "High profits always attract competitors." In turn, a greater selection of goods and services as well as heavier emphasis on value are generated. Whether it's building a better mousetrap or a better rock hauling machine, the consumer benefits.

Without the profit motive, our standard of living would slip, Reed said. "This is why government is often inefficient — there is no profit motive in government."

"The profit drive is the thermostat that regulates production in this country," Reed continued. "No company wants to lose money — it will raise prices or reduce costs to make a profit. If this doesn't work it stops making these products and turns to something else."

MYTH NUMBER THREE is the belief that profits drain a company's assets and prospects for future growth. "Let's use the products of our efforts today and not try to set aside any capital to produce in the future," said Reed in describing this line. An opposite policy is that all money left over when the bills are paid should be plowed back into the company for future expansion. Somewhere midway between these approaches is the company's best bet for profitable operations, Reed said.

Rex Chainbelt Pays Dividend

Rex Chainbelt recently celebrated the payment of its 200th consecutive quarterly cash dividend on common stock.

W. C. Messinger, chairman, said, "We are very proud of this record; 50 years of common stock dividends without a miss in any quarter, beginning in 1922."

"This performance places Rex in a very select group of listed companies which the New York Stock Exchange refers to as 'dividend stalwarts.' Of the nearly 1500 companies listed on that Exchange, only a small group of companies, just over 100, have paid regular quarterly dividends for 50 years or more," Messinger said.

"The payment of this dividend also represents the 332nd consecutive cash dividend paid by the company with dividends paid in each year beginning in 1894, which was just three years after Rex was founded. This is a record not matched by any machinery company listed on that exchange," Messinger said.

The common stock of Rex was first listed on the New York Stock Exchange in 1939. In addition to that listing, the company's common stock is also listed on the Midwest Stock Exchange, Chicago, and is admitted for trading on the Philadelphia-Baltimore-Washington Exchange. In May of this year Rex became one of 65 American companies whose stock is listed on the Stock Exchange, London, England.

Rex Chainbelt Inc. is a manufacturer of mechanical power drive and conveyor components and other systems. It includes a facility in Des Plaines.

NEW WAYS TO CONSERVE fuel are practiced by Horizon Club member Susan Seger of Schaumburg at a recent camporee. She bakes a cake in a foil-lined cardboard carton oven, its foil-covered shelf supported by soft drink cans. Each live coal on the bottom shelf produces 50 degrees of heat.

TWENTY TONS of paper in one day. That's what Kris Glatz and other Arlington Heights Horizon Club girls are also dressing dolls as gifts for inner city children.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

Today's Camp Fire Girl

She Treats The World With Love

by ELEANOR RIVES

"This is our world — treat it with love."

That's the theme of 5,000 girls in the northwest suburbs who have dedicated their time and energies to the problems of ecology. Today an awareness and concern for the environment runs like a recurring melody through all levels of the Camp Fire organization.

Bluebirds, age 6, 7 and 8, still go on treasure hunts. But the treasure is litter and broad is the grin of the girl who brings back the biggest bag. Girls get more excited over glass and paper drives than they do over making hospital favors.

Camp Fire level girls, age 9, 10 and 11, are planting trees and making compost heaps instead of burning leaves. Their concern is as large as the world around them or a small as a 10-by-10 foot square section of land yielding the secrets of plant and animal life to their patient scrutiny.

JUNIOR HIGH girls are now called "Discovery Club" girls, and discover they do — learning along the way how to treat the world more lovingly, meeting and understanding people of a different skin color, beautifying ugly places and taking positive action to improve the environment, whether it be planting trees to combat dwindling oxygen supplies or writing letters to congressmen urging them to support ecology measures.

Horizon Club girls, high school age, band together to strengthen the force of their impact on the problems of ecology or, driven by a desire to be of service, work individually in their chosen fields. Last May, Horizon Club girls of the Metropolitan Chicago Council, which includes the northwest suburbs, planted no less than 500 trees in a camp area in their "Encounter With Nature" project.

INDIVIDUALLY these high school girls may be found working as hospital aides, helping with the retarded, volunteering as swimming instructors for their town's park district, giving speeches on pollution, attending conservation conferences assisting the physically handicapped, gaining new knowledge from people, organizations and books and a passing that knowledge on to younger girls.

Flexibility of uniform is characteristic of Camp Fire today. Said Miss Janet Murray, executive director of the Metropolitan Chicago Council, "Girls can modify their costume at will. We don't get tense about these things anymore."

A group of 20 Horizon Club girls, including Pam Bailey, Sue Swenson and Kim Pearson of Rolling Meadows, when planning the trip they took to Mexico Aug. 4-16, not only selected their own pattern of dress for official occasions there, but many made their outfits themselves.

CAMPING IS still a high priority activity for Camp Fire members, but in some respects it has taken on a new complexion.

Big log fires are out — wood is too precious. Charcoal fires for cooking, or liquid fire stoves, are in. The popularity of family camping today is being recognized and experiments have begun incorporating family camping in resident camps which formerly were "for girls only." Husbands often accompany wives who are advisers on camping outings.

Men, in fact, are more in evidence now in the Camp Fire organization — men such as David Tregay of Elk Grove Village, who dubs himself his wife's assistant adviser, but is in reality vice chairman and camping chairman of the entire Tokata District (Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park).

OR MEN LIKE Jim Zaloudek of Arlington Heights, who is district chairman of the Kayati District (Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Barrington and Lake Zurich).

Mrs. Robert Seger of Schaumburg is district chairman of Tokata and Mrs. Robert Blizzard of Arlington Heights is district chairman of Taticon (Arlington Heights, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove).

The oldest Camp Fire district in the area is Potawatomi, which includes Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and parts of Des Plaines. Mrs. Will Granzin of Mount Prospect is district chairman.

President of the Metropolitan Chicago Council itself is a northwest suburban resident, Mrs. Russell Lindholm of Palatine.

MOUNT PROSPECT is noted for having the greatest retention of older girls (high school level) of any neighborhood in the council. Advisers like Mrs. Leo Floros, Mrs. John Welles and Mrs. Granzin have stayed with their groups for years, have grown along with them and have bent over backwards to keep their programs exciting, flexible and creative.

Indeed, exciting, flexible, creative activity has been the aim of many of the Camp Fire program modifications now in effect. The organization still provides a light framework for advisers to follow, makes suggestions in broad areas, but program planning is up to the girls themselves.

Discovery Club girls may take "crack" courses — programs supplied by other organizations, such as the Sierra Club, National Museum of Art or Wildlife Federation.

"STRUGGLE STUDIES" encourage investigation of current issues such as women's role in society, drugs and related problems, alcoholism, problems of morality, boy-girl relationships and the voting franchise.

In the Torch Bearer program, a girl strives to become proficient as an individual, with about 20 areas from which to choose. In another series, the group approach to skills is put into practice.

The watchword of Camp Fire is Wohelo — work, health, love. The slogan is "Give Service." And service is evident everywhere.

More than 30 Horizon Club girls in one district volunteered their services for day camp this past summer, helping teach and guide the 400 kids who attended.

Bus stops, village halls, parks and railroad stations have flowered under Camp Fire care.

A CHORUS OF 50 young people, directed by Horizon Club member Nancy Floros of Mount Prospect, and including many Camp Fire girls, has presented "Tell It Like It Is" in churches throughout the area. They are currently working on their new production, "Life."

Many glass recycling and paper drives throughout the northwest suburbs owe their success to Camp Fire Girls. Forest Preserves in the area have been left cleaner, more litter free, by Camp Fire day campers.

Who knows what lies ahead for this organization? Complete updating of the 4th through 6th grade level is now in the planning stage. Horizon Club has opened its doors to boys.

Camp Fire was founded in 1910. Said Janet Murray, "Sure, it's nice we're rooted back there, but how are we making it now? That's what counts. We've added a lot, but still kept what we already had."

WITH HOT COALS, blower and tongs, corn-on-the-cob is baked to delicious tenderness under the intense concentration of Laura Paulish and Jeannie Somogyi of Schaumburg, both 9. Their first year Camp Fire level group, led by Mrs. Lee Yourman, was enjoying its first camping experience.

CONCERN FOR THEIR environment led Lori Williams, left, Connie Missar and Linda Welles to tend the grounds of the Mount Prospect Village Hall. As Horizon Club members, they volunteer service in other fields, too — Lori in gardening, Connie in a singing group and Linda with retarded children.

FRESH GARDEN FLOWERS will decorate tables at Monday evening's dinner and fashion show for Elk Grove Lions Ladies and guests. Nordic Hills Country Club is the setting for 6:30 cocktails, 7:30 dinner and a

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

This column has been saying it for a long time, but now researchers are saying that garlic may be the new DDT.

Evidence introduced by S. V. Amonkar and A. Banerji of the Bhabha Atomic Research Center in Bombay, India, indicates that garlic may provide a deadly diet for mosquitoes, houseflies and certain other major insect pests while posing none of the hazards of DDT.

The two researchers reported that they had isolated, identified and duplicated synthetically ingredients within garlic oil responsible for its power to kill the above as well as aphids, cabbage caterpillars, Colorado beetle larvae, potato moth and several other insects. This paves the way for mass production of the nontoxic bug killer.

For years, I've been using garlic juice in my spaghetti sauce as well as on my arms and legs when I'm in the garden weeding and had good results with both. Hopefully, the insecticides of the future will be so harmless, we will be able to keep them on the kitchen shelf.

If spring passed you by without your sowing a seed, try fall planting of next year's annuals — larkspur, spider flower, cornflower and poppies. These can be safely planted outdoors in the fall — even where winters are severe as in our area — thus helping you obtain an early burst of annual bloom next year.

If you have a greenhouse, never keep the lights on all night. A regular period of sleep is as essential to the health of plants and trees as it is to humans. Without regular shots of darkness, living things might wear themselves out in relatively short order.

Dinner, Fashions For Lions Ladies

"You've Come A Long Way, Baby" is the title of a dinner and fashion show slated Monday evening for Elk Grove Lions Ladies and their guests. This is the 13th annual show for the club and takes place at Nordic Hills Country Club.

All proceeds will go to Hope School for the Blind in Springfield.

A cocktail hour begins at 6:30, dinner at 7:30 and then the show featuring ensembles by Country Club Fashions. Models, all members of the Lions Ladies, are Mrs. Philip Alessi, Mrs. Edward Cavello, Mrs. Donald Lange, Mrs. Roger Niemeyer, Mrs. Irv Svoboda, Mrs. John Westerberg, Mrs. Richard Ohman, Miss Vicky Siewert and Miss Cathy Challenger.

Mrs. Jack Perry and Mrs. Charles Siewert are co-chairmen. Tickets are still available from Mrs. Lange, 437-0876. She and Mrs. Tom Wienkowski are in charge of reservations; Mrs. Niemeyer, programs; Mrs. George Cassara, awards; and Mrs. Ohman, publicity.

How's your harvest? The Arlington Heights Garden Club and the Arlington Heights Park District are working together on a flower and garden show set for Saturday, Sept. 16, at Pioneer Park. All the goodies that did especially well in the Prairie Park organic project will be on display as well as posies from backyard gardens. Call the park district if you want to get in on the action. Anyone can enter. The show is open to all lookers, too!

The Sierra Club and other environmental activists are asking everyone's support in writing their congressmen to halt the passage of H.R. 7211 which threatens to make chaos of public land administration by lumping together numerous federal agencies, miring public lands ever deeper in bureaucracy. The Sierra Club asks instead support for S. 2401, the National Resources Lands Management Act of 1972 and S.632 (Land and Water Resources Act which would place management activities under separate systems. Write your senators to urge support of S.632 and S.2401, the strong alternatives. The Sierra Club calls H.R. 7211 a crisis, if passed, for our national parks, forests, wildlife refuges and other public lands.

Got 'Cabin Fever'? Not These Juniors

One way to beat "cabin fever," that old cooped-up feeling, is to get involved in community activities. That's the advice of Elk Grove Junior Woman's Club.

To help get area women "involved" the club is hosting a membership tea Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 at the home of Mrs. Richard Mayworn, 257 Tanglewood Drive.

THE GUESTS will be welcomed by president Mrs. George Petras, membership chairman Mrs. Mel Condon, and vice president Mrs. Larry Basik. They will explain the various functions and goals of the club, including the areas of community service.

The club's big fund-raiser for fall is Sunday, Sept. 17, a house walk through ten homes in Elk Grove. They have all been chosen for their unusual redecorating or remodeling techniques. Tickets are available from Mrs. Mayworn, 439-2833.

All Elk Grove women are eligible for membership in the Juniors. Further information on the tea can be obtained from Mrs. Condon, 437-8871.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Is there anything short of washing or dry cleaning that can be done to a new garment that has an unpleasant "fishy" odor? The odor became noticeable after the dress had been hung in a closed closet for several days. It's a formal, made of a lovely flowered material that looks like chiffon, and I'm afraid it will lose some of its original body if it has to be cleaned. Airing it all day out-of-doors had no effect whatsoever. Any suggestions?

—Constance Van Blarcum

I know of one similar episode. In this case, the owner put the dress into a cardboard box, added a dish of activated charcoal granules, then sealed the box. She took the dress out after 48 hours; no odor.

Dear Dorothy: What's the reason the tomatoes we eat freshly picked from our friend's garden are so much better than the "fresh" ones bought at the store?

—Alice L.

The "home-grown" tomato is allowed to ripen completely before being picked. Tomatoes shipped to market are picked before they're ripe. This makes for that slight difference in taste.

Dear Dorothy: We do a lot of camping on vacations and long weekends so we are aware of many of the dangers (like recognizing poison ivy and giving snakes ample room). However, something happened on our last trip and so we've bought whistles to hang around the necks of the youngest children and drilled them to blow them if they think they're lost.

—Lillian R.

Dear Dorothy: The best thing to use on insect bites is vinegar. It neutralizes the acid of the bite.

—Ruth Lench

Their 'In-Law' Joke Comes True

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Maguire

Donna Jean Hornof and Daniel Patrick Maguire had known each other for 12 years before their double ring wedding ceremony took place Aug. 12 at Our Lady of the Wayside Church in Arlington Heights.

Having grown up a block apart from each other, the two became friends when the Hornof and Maguire families took camping vacations together. The families used to joke about becoming in-laws, never dreaming it would come true.

The couple first started seriously dating when Pat asked Donna to his prom during his senior year in high school at St. Viator.

Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hornof of 418 S. Kennicott, Arlington Heights, and Pat is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Maguire of 407 S. Patton.

THE COUPLE now resides in Winona, Minn., where Donna, a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School and Northern Illinois University, is hoping to find a teaching position.

Her husband, a graduate of St. Viator High School, is finishing his final year of college at St. Mary's in Winona.

For her wedding, Donna wore an Empire-styled gown that featured a high neck, ruffled bouffant sleeves and a nylon sateen skirt and train. She wore a three-tier nylon net veil over a lace bonnet-styled headpiece and carried a bridal bouquet of orchids and stephanotis mixed with baby's breath and greens.

Maid of honor was Diane Hornof, the bride's sister. She wore an Empire-styled gown of yellow nylon designed with long sleeves and ruffled cuffs. A yellow satin ribbon that fell into streamers in the back accented the waistline.

BRIDESMAIDS WERE Christine Greene of Arlington Heights, Theresa Keane, Chicago and Marlene Jehs, Des Plaines. Deborah Hornof, the bride's 10-year-old sister, was junior bridesmaid, and Mary Clare Maguire, 6, the groom's sister, was flower girl.

The attendants all wore gowns styled like the maid of honor's dress but in different colors. The rainbow setting included gowns of orchid, pink, apricot, pale green and blue. All wore white picture hats and carried white wicker baskets filled with multi-colored carnations, white daisies and baby's breath.

Mark Abate of Palatine was best man.

Groomsmen were William Wheaton of Palatine, Daniel Del Fava of Evanston and Gregory Seykora of Minnesota. Ushers were the bride's brother, Gerald Hornof and the groom's two brothers, Timothy and Thomas Maguire.

A dinner reception for 168 guests was held at the Bunker Hill Country Club after which Donna and Pat left for a week's honeymoon in Wisconsin.

NOW Meets Monday

North Suburban Chapter of the National Organization for Women will hold chapter elections at its 8 p.m. meeting, Monday, at Northfield Community Church, corner of Willow Road and Wagner, Northfield.

Chapter members Judith Dye and Jordan Miller will read Clare Booth Luce's modern adaptation of Ibsen's famous play, "The Doll's House."

The public is invited.

Their Romance Budded As High School Juniors

Two 1972 University of Illinois graduates were married Aug. 19 in a candle-light, double ring ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights.

Carolyn Ann Dalley and Gregg Douglas Lemein first started dating while juniors at Arlington High School. Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Dalley of 421 S. Yale, Arlington Heights, and Gregg is the son of the John Lemeins of 407 N. Haddow.

Following a week's honeymoon at Pheasant Run in St. Charles, the couple is making their home in Arlington Heights. Carolyn is a fifth grade teacher for District 25, at North School, and her husband is a graduate student in law and management at Northwestern University.

THE BRIDE WORE a gown of ivory Schifflie embroidered fabric on English net. The dress featured an Empire bodice of ivory satin, a high neckline and full bishop sleeves. Ivory sequins encircled each embroidered flower and continued to decorate the chapel sweep of the train. Carolyn also wore a short bouffant veil attached to a satin Juliet cap and carried a cascade of yellow-throated white orchids.

Nancee Dalley, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor. Mrs. Leslie Nash, the bride's cousin from Churchton, Md., was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Robin McKinley, a cousin of the bride's from Silver City, N.C.; Janis Lemein, the groom's sister who resides in Hoffman Estates; and Mrs. Marilyn Fisher of Wheaton.

THE ATTENDANTS wore gowns fashioned of lavender chiffon with white lace trim at the Empire waistlines, around the open V's of the necklines and the cuffs of the bishop cut sleeves. They carried nosegays of white bachelor buttons, pink carnations and deep violet statice.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Lemein

Stacey and John Dalley, the bride's sister and brother, were acolytes for the ceremony.

Best man was T. Ray Peale of Arlington Heights. Ushers were Stephen Dalley, the bride's brother; Paul Jensen, the groom's cousin from Hinsdale; G. Jackson Price of Alexandria, Va.; and John Simpson of Taylorville.

A dinner for 150 guests was held following the ceremony at the Maitre D' Restaurant in Elk Grove Village.

Stockmarket at a glance... appearing daily on the HERALD's Financial Page.

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

What a pity a metropolis the size of Chicago — and a center of the arts as well — cannot provide its musically inclined residents any better service in obtaining music. This consumer of music had the following experience in trying to obtain a well-known organ book:

In June I contacted nearly every sheet music store in the metropolitan area by phone, none of which had this much used book in stock, including its publisher's Chicago outlet, Carl Fischer & Co. in the Loop. I waited several weeks for its "imminent" arrival at Fischer, finally gave up and ordered it from Lyon-Healy, Evanston.

I called this store periodically for six weeks—sorry, it's still not in... at the end of August, I called Lyon-Healy in Chicago in desperation, and was told the order had arrived there and been sent to Evanston. I called the Evanston store and was told they didn't have it. Both stores insisted on their versions, blaming each other. I said I didn't care whose "fault" it was; I just wanted the book. (All this time my craving to get on with my organ lessons was being frustrated beyond endurance.)

THERE ALREADY had been a 5-day lapse from when the Chicago store had allegedly sent the order to Evanston, but I allowed a few more days, and called Evanston again. This time I was told the store was closed because they were moving, and was further informed that the order had arrived but I wouldn't be able to get it for at least another week, when the store would reopen.

At this writing, I still don't have the music. I have spent (wasted) three months trying to get it, (Fischer still doesn't have it, either) and I am wondering what in the world music students or professional musicians do here. One could easily blow an entire school term or performance season just trying to obtain one's tools in this vast, retail music wasteland.

Ads for vocational training and home study programs are now subject to Federal Trade Commission guidelines which forbid deception. Any person or group that prepares students for employment in mechanical, artistic or clerical work or purports to improve appearance, social graces or personality falls under the guidelines.

THE SCHOOLS ARE now forbidden to: Advertise a "talent hunt" or contest unless the ad clearly states that the sponsor is soliciting students, or imply that a job is being offered or guaranteed;

Use names implying that the school is associated with a government agency or is an employment agency;

Imply that the school is accredited; Make any false suggestions concerning facilities or enrollment standards.

About 350,000 food products compete for shelf space in U.S. grocery stores and 24 new products are introduced every day, according to statistics from the University of Illinois. Due in part to consumer choice, about five to eight out of every 10 new products fail.

Art Historian Guest Speaker

Aloise Zehner, an art historian from Arlington Heights, will discuss the historical, political and religious influences the Medici family had on the Renaissance, when members of the Community Arts League of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove meet tonight.

The Medici family of Italy greatly patronized the arts. One of the most famous artists commissioned by the wealthy family was Michelangelo.

The meeting, beginning at 8 p.m., is being held in the old church building in Chamber of Commerce Park on Wolf Road north of Dundee Road.

Mrs. Zehner lives two months each year in Florence, Italy, where she studies the great masterpieces that were produced in the Middle Ages. When not traveling throughout Europe, Mrs. Zehner spends her time working on her paintings. She will be exhibiting at the Monroe Gallery in Chicago during October.

Mrs. Zehner is a past president of the Chicago Society of Artists and one of the original founders of Countryside Art Center in Arlington Heights.

Wildlife Conservation Series To Issue 4

by BERNADINE M. RECHNER

Four 8 cent stamps in the Wildlife Conservation series will be issued by the U.S. Postal Service Sept. 20 at Warm Springs, Ore. These continue the popular series begun in 1968 and are jumbo in size, horizontal in format.

The stamps were designed by Stanley Galli and depict the fur seal, the cardinal, the brown pelican and the bighorn sheep. The Postal Service has pointed out that these are not necessarily endangered species but rather that all forms of wildlife should be of public concern.

The print order is 150 million and the stamps will be issued 32 to a pane with one plate number appearing on each pane.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations should address their requests to "Wildlife Conservation Stamps, Postmaster, Warm Springs, Ore. 97761" enclosing the proper remittance. Requests for specific stamps will be honored. Customers ordering blocks of four are reminded to address the cover as low and as far to the left as possible to provide space for affixing the jumbo stamps.

Canada will issue five new medium value definitive stamps tomorrow at Ottawa.

All five stamps — the 10 cent, 15 cent, 20 cent, 25 cent and the 50 cent — were designed by Reinhard Derreth of Vancouver, B.C. The designs feature examples of wildlife and terrain indigenous to different geographical regions of Canada.

The 25 cent stamp, symbolic of the vastness of the Canadian North, depicts two polar bears wandering across the ice.

The 10 cent stamp portrays the forests and lakes so typical of central Canada; Canada's western mountain areas, inhabited by sheep and other species, are represented on the 15 cent issue.

A prairie mosaic was chosen for the 15 cent adhesive and the natural splendor of the Canadian seashore has been captured on the 50 cent value.

All denominations are being "tagged" and will be available through the Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0B5.

The United Nations Postal Administration has announced it will no longer accept cash remittances with mail orders for U.N. stamps, stationary and other philatelic items, commencing with the ECE issue to be released Sept. 11.

All payments must be made by postal money order, certified check, bank draft or personal check drawn to the order of the "United Nations Postal Administration." Mail orders with personal checks will be held an extra 14 days following deposit of the check to assure bank clearance. Cash remittances will be returned to the sender.

Social Security and You

Q — I'LL BE 72 next month, but I intend to go on working as long as I can. I know I can earn as much as I want after I'm 72 and still get all my social security checks. But will my earnings from the first part of the year, before I was 72, still affect my social security payments?

A — Yes. You will get a social security check for every month beginning with the month of your 72nd birthday — no matter how much you work or earn. However, your earnings for the entire year in which you become 72 are used in figuring what payments can be made to you for the months you were still 71. Remember whenever an individual is under age 72 in part of a year when he earns more than $1,680 and receives social security benefits, he must file an annual report with Social Security.

Q — I'M A WIDOW and I'll be 60 next month. I've been working at a store near my home in Buffalo Grove since my husband died in 1964. My health, however, isn't as good as it used to be and I'd like to cut down on my work. Am I eligible for social security payments?

A — Yes. You can get reduced widow's payments at 60; full widow's benefits start at 62. If the work you mentioned you are doing is covered by social security, you may also be eligible for retirement benefits at age 62 on your own record provided you earned credit for enough work under the program. The amount of your earnings could effect your monthly payments. A third possibility for payments would be if your health prevents you from doing any substantial work. Then you may qualify for disability benefits until age 65, regardless of your age when you became unable to work. You can contact your Social Security Office, 120 W. Eastman, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60004, for complete details.

Q — I'M 61 YEARS old and am looking ahead trying to figure my retirement income. Is it possible for me to find out how much my monthly social security payments will be?

A — Yes. Any social security office can give you an estimate of your social security payments. It's a good idea to talk to a representative when you're nearing retirement. In addition to giving you an estimate of what your payments will be when you retire, he can also tell you what papers and other information you'll need when you apply.

Q — I AM A WIDOW. My late husband worked in social security jobs. I will get my benefits from him I think but I have also worked myself. How can I find out which record I can get the most money from?

A — Your social security office will check for you which record will pay you the most money. If you are near 60, check on your widow's benefits now. You can not receive retirement benefits on your own employment record until 62. You will be given enough information to arrive at your own decision.

Q — HOW LONG CAN I keep my social security check without cashing it?

A — There is no time limit for cashing it. It's a good practice though to cash it quickly. This eliminates the chance of it being lost, destroyed or stolen.

Palatine Shows Promise Again

Defending Harrier Champ Boasts Returning Talent

by LARRY EVERHART

It has long been said that it is tougher to successfully defend a title than to win it for the first time.

Palatine's cross country team this fall will get a chance to find out first-hand how much truth there is in that.

The Pirates surprised a few people last year by claiming the top prize in the Mid-Suburban League in a spirited three-way dogfight with Fremd and Forest View. They did not qualify for the state meet but still savored their first conference title in any sport in eight years (later duplicated easily by the track team).

It would probably be even a bigger surprise if Palatine pulled off the same feat this autumn since Fremd definitely is favored for the MSL championship. Still the Pirates, as usual, will be one of the top forces to contend with.

They could use more depth but veteran coach Joe Johnson — one of the proven best harrier and track mentors in the Chicagoland area — does have front-line quality with four of his top seven from last year back.

Senior co-captains with lots of seasoning under battle conditions are Scott Williams and Steve Peterson. Williams posted a 4:20.6 mile last spring and Peterson was No. 4 varsity harrier by the end of last year.

Not far behind him were a pair of junior regulars, Paul Kearns and Dave Tehle. Three other returning lettermen are Jim Simonik, Rick Scholl and Bill O'Neill. Juniors also looking good are John Thullen and Tom Glenn.

The biggest graduation losses, of course, are Brian Barnett and Fred Miller who were fourth and fifth respectively in the conference meet in 1971. Peterson was 11th and Williams 14th in that big meet.

A bright spot is the squad's physical condition. "The kids ran more than my teams ever have in the summer," said Johnson. "They are far ahead of where we were last year at this time."

Besides Fremd, Johnson sees Elk Grove and Forest View — each with a pair of touted regulars back — as the roughest competition in the league.

Palatine's season gets a very early start this Saturday when they play host to an attractive quadrangular starting at 1:30 against York, Lane Tech and Maine South. York is defending state champion and one of the top favorites again this year, so the Pirates should find out right away where they stand (or, rather, run).

This will be the only home meet to be run at the Union 76 Oil Co. grounds at Route 58 and Meacham Rd. in Palatine. Other home meets will again be at Palatine Hills Golf Club, but the golfers will still have the run of the place this weekend.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS University's 1972 football team, potentially the finest in the school's history, will kick off its schedule Saturday, Sept. 9 at 1:30 p.m. by hosting ancient rival Illinois State University in Northern Stadium. Just to make sure pretty Miss Chris de la Cerra, a junior a NIU from Kankakee (Westview) and first runner-up in the 1972 Miss Illinois Contest, doesn't miss the opener, linebacker Ed Klingberg, a St. Viator High School product, points to date in school's football guide book as defensive secondary coach John Luckhardt stands by to emphasize point.

Dukas, Gatti In Feature Wins

Familiar Story At Waukegan Speedway

George Dukas of Zion picked up his 15th feature win of the year Friday night at the Waukegan Speedway in a split program featuring both the late model sportsman and the mini-stock cars.

Bob Richards of Joliet took the mini-stock feature lead with seven laps remaining to win their feature over Geno Zullo of Joliet and Dennis Nuelley of Kingston.

Richards set the fastest time of the night with a 15.44 lap and finished second in the second heat race. It was the only appearance of the year here for the minis as racing switches to Saturday nights only at Waukegan following the three-night Labor Day Weekend card.

Dukas took a controversial win in the 25-lap sportsman main before the chilled crowd as George Garrett of Zion held the lead through the 15th lap.

Dukas passed Richter and locked bumpers with Garrett in the 16th lap and the result was Garrett spun and Dukas charged on for the win. Jim Couch of Grayslake finished second with Don Elgass of Ingleside third in front of Skip Don of Waukegan, Kenyon Graham of Winthrop Harbor and Tom Talbott of Mundelein. Garrett recovered for seventh money.

J. P. Gatti, Jr. of Chicago set a new one-lap sportsman record in time trials with a 15.62 lap and then won both the trophy dash and the second heat race. He dropped out of the feature after just five laps. Elgass won the other sportsman heat race.

Gary Entzminger of Chicago won the dash for the mini-stocks and heat wins in that class went to Nuelley and Zullo.

Gatti used several red flag situations to his advantage Saturday night to win the 50-lap Fall Championship race.

Two roll-overs and two broken fingers interrupted the racing action on this chilly evening. Emil Ladewig of North Chicago flipped his hobby car in the first lap of their first heat in an accident involving two other cars. He was not hurt.

At the end of the 50-lap race Ken Hamann of Waukegan hit the pit wall after a tangle with Joe Francisco of Island Lake while racing for third spot. He flipped on his side and then landed on his wheels.

Hamann also crawled from the car unhurt, but one hobby driver and one pitman received broken fingers in separate accidents.

Abel Avila of Wauconda led the main for five laps before Elgass moved in front. Joe Horn of Zion had his new engine in top shape and powered into the lead on the eighth lap and opened up a big lead before Art Brewer of Round Lake blew his engine in the 34th lap.

Dukas had spun in Brewer's oil and dropped out of the race. Gatti was second and Francisco third at the restart, but a number of lapped cars were between them and Horn, the leader.

The red flag flew again in three laps when Bostick lost a wheel. On this restart Gatti was right on Horn's bumper and three laps later he took the lead.

Francisco finished third after his tussle with Hamann who was awarded fourth. George Garrett of Zion took fifth and Graham was sixth.

Gatti won his sixth and seventh features of the year Sunday night as he raced home the winner in both 30-lap features. Gatti led a total of 28-laps between the two events picking up an extra $5 for each lap he led.

Sunday's Twin 30's wrapped up the Sunday events until next season. Saturday night racing (only) will continue at the Speedway through September with a demolition derby added to next Saturday's races.

Gatti won every event he entered Sunday as he timed at 15.89 to lead the qualifiers, then won the dash and both feature races. He started in 15th spot in the first feature but took advantage of the misfortunes of others to gain the lead from Avila in the eighth lap. Ed Smith of Gurnee had led the first six laps.

This race required only one restart.

Dukas finished second to Gatti with Francisco third, Avila fourth and Bostick fifth. Horn, the second quickest qualifier, spun out in the first lap and finished the race 13th.

The second feature was made up of the top 14 finishers from the first feature and the top four from the second consolation. The inverted order had Horn starting pole outside and he was way out front collecting lap prizes until the ninth lap when Roger Hacke of Waukegan lost a wheel.

Horn withstood the challenges of both Dukas second and Gatti third. Gatti squeezed past Dukas in the 14th lap and was right on Horn's back bumper in the 19th lap when Dave Horst of Gurnee spun and was hit by Garrett directly in front of the grandstand.

Horn withstood the challenges of xboth Gatti and Dukas on the restart and held the lead through the 25th lap, the usual feature length, and then was passed by Gatti at the start-finish line in the next lap.

Dukas collected third place money followed by Gostick, Smith, Avila and John Gonzalez of Macomb.

Two special consolation races were required with Ralph Korner of Milwaukee winning the first and Jim Couch of Grayslake winning the second. Nick Peters of Zion was leading the first consolation when his left rear wheel ripped off sending him high into the air as he raced down the front straightaway.

Carlson Jones of Great Lakes and Jack Hemmings of North Chicago won the hobby stock events.

Midget Grid Play Begins

The annual autumnal madness returns to Lions Park this Sunday, Sept. 10, as the Mount Prospect Midget Football Association begins its 16th season of competition between 30 teams in three divisions. There will again be six squads in the Senior class and twelve each in the Junior and Bantam levels.

The six system directors this season will be: Vic Rose (Bears), Pete Petran (Cardinals), Dick Grigsby (Colts), Frank Holan (Giants), Tony Arredia (Lions), and Ken O'Callaghan (Packers).

Nerb Chmura will guide the Senior Bears and has an experienced due in Roger Spielman (Vikings) and Joe Allegretti (Browns). Fearsome Frank Chmura takes over for brother Nerb as Illini head coach. Terry Cherwin pilots the Wildcats.

Dick Grigsby, in his first season as the Colts' system major-dome, has three veteran coaches in Bob McBride (Cowboys), Jack Frugo (Wolverines) and Frank Vlach (Hoosiers). Past Association president Kurt Teichert heads the Rams and Mort Sennett leads the Colts.

SCOTT WILLIAMS is Palatine's top returning letterman in cross country, having finished 14th in the conference meet last year and owning a 4:20 time in the mile run last spring.

Flag, Anthem Have Place In Sport

THREE VERY SPECIAL people stand on a mini pyramid. This trio is proud, but proudest of all is the one in the middle.

Alone and above the other two, this individual is experiencing something for only the very few, the very talented. Like standing on Mt. Everest, this person for a brief but thrilling moment is on top of the world — an Olympic gold medalist.

Until the tragic Arab incident earlier this week, millions had watched daily as one world champion after another was crowned with glory.

There were proud moments galore for the many countries that witnessed their athletes so honored, especially for the United States. After a Mark Spitz or a Dan Gable has received the coveted gold, the most moving moment since the winning performance takes place. Up the poles are hoisted the three national flags of the athletes, the Star and Stripes occupying center stage. When the Star-Spangled Banner is played, that has to be a thrill of thrills for the champion.

The same goose bumps, cold chills up the spine and moist eyes that we viewers experience have to be surging through the muscular bodies of our competitors at a time like that. At that probably once-in-a-lifetime moment, this young man or woman is THE champion of our country.

The Olympic Games — where almost every nation in the world is represented — is a fitting place for playing the national anthem and raising our country's flag. It gives the winning athletes an identity.

After witnessing this almost reverent scene, the similar daily flag raisings and national anthems at every televised baseball, football and basketball game come off as a meaningless display of patriotism. How many times have you heard this tired sentence by an announcer:

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, let's all rise, face the flag and pay tribute to our country by singing the national anthem."

Have you ever wondered why a patriotic display is connected with certain sports events?

I found the reason for the pre-game display recently. The writer explained it like this:

"When I was a boy in the 1930s, the playing of the Star-Spangled Banner and the raising of the flag were thrilling moments. In sport, the anthem and the ceremonial raising of the flag were only for major events, like Opening Day or the World Series.

"Then, during World War II, baseball — self-conscious about continuing business as usual during wartime — began to play the anthem and raise the flag before every game in an attempt to equate baseball with patriotism. The custom continued and spread until now flag and anthem before an athletic event have about as much significance as shaking hands. The magic, the thrill, is gone."

Have you ever noticed the inconsistency compared to other "slighted" sports?

Shouldn't pro golfers be allowed to have the national anthem and the flag raised up before they tee off, at least for the U.S. Open? And what about pro bowlers and tennis players? How about cross country runners and track and field performers?

Howard Cosell, an announcer who has openly admitted his love for his country, had this to say about the patriotic rites in sporting events:

"I don't equate professional football,

THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER
Why Is It Part Of Some Sports?

major league baseball or any other sport in this country with motherhood, apple pie and patriotism. That's part of the old-world motif that's gone forever, and young people don't buy it either.

"Furthermore, I don't think the playing of our national anthem is a fitting beginning for a football game or basketball game or boxing match or any athletic contest . . . how is it an evidence of patriotism to sing or hear the national anthem played before a game? That's a cheap and easy thing, and 200,000,000 Benedict Arnolds could subscribe to it and it still wouldn't make them patriots. Likewise, I feel that playing the anthem before a game debases it and cheapens the real meaning of patriotism."

Cosell irritates a lot of people, but many times it's because he speaks the truth, and the truth sometimes is hard to take.

I wouldn't go as far as Cosell concerning the use of flag and anthem. I'd like to see them in such things as the Olympics, international meets or sporting events between two countries. But blaring out the "Oh say can you see" at events from high school to the pros seems meaningless to me.

There would be much more meaning if a fight song for the football team was played. Basketball teams could use a sharp warmup number, something catchy like the Globetrotters' "Sweet Georgia Brown." Baseball could easily find something else — a possible combined fight song-warmup arrangement.

Somewhat the argument that tradition makes it right doesn't hold any water with me. I've seen countless high school baseball games and regular season American Legion games which never have the flag or the anthem present. I've never seen any fans getting upset because the host team wasn't being patriotic.

All that has been said about the use or misuse of the flag and anthem in sport won't make the high schools, colleges or pros change their ways. This fall the stadia throughout the nation will quake with the words of Francis Scott Key.

A person coming from another planet and landing near one of these stadia would probably think a political rally was taking place. He'd know shortly, however, that it was a sporting event as soon as the words "and the home of the brave" were concluded. Then would come the cries, "Kill the bleeps!"

If you still think the anthem and flag raising have a place in sports, ask yourself this last question:

How many times have you seen the same thing at other entertainment functions such as movies, operas, plays or dances?

Miles And Miles Secures 1st In Scratch Division

The Old Orchard Scratch League closed out its season last week with Miles & Miles picking up 3½ points, enough to secure first place by a slim 75-74 margin over L'Nor Cleaners. Jim Badenoch of Miles & Miles fired a 37 against Mike Melchiorre of L'Nor for the last night's competition.

Peters & Co. wound up third at 71½, with Silo Restaurant, C.P. Floors and Baird & Warner rounding out the first division.

A sidelight of the last night's activity was a shootout between Bob Kronn of Peters & Co. and Mike Spinello of Baird & Warner for individual honors. Bob carded a 35 to finish the season at 35.2 while Mike bogeyed the final hole, raising his score to 36 and his year's average to 35.3.

Homes of the Northwest Suburbs

The "L" Shaped Ranch

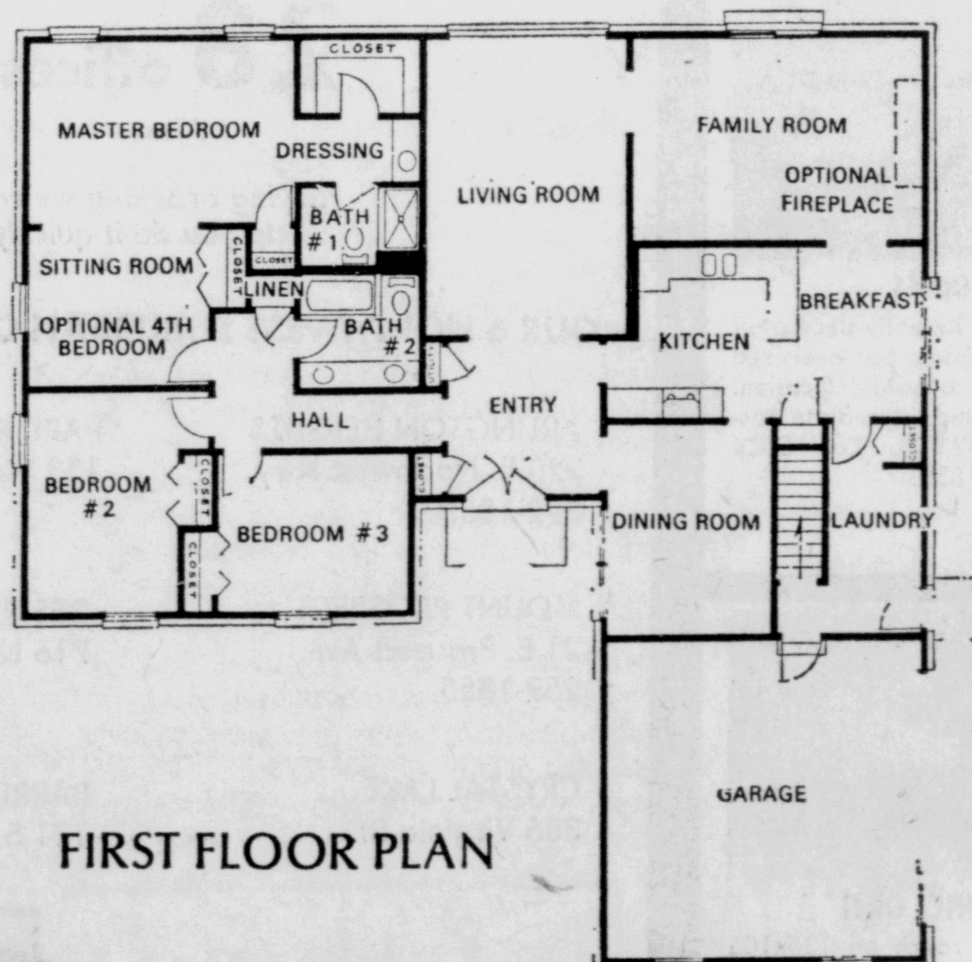

The "L" Shaped ranch combines economy construction with central traffic pattern for the utmost in economy construction and exterior interest.

The basic "L" shape ranch offers many interesting possibilities for unusual landscaping because of the 6 wall exterior design and allows for many different elevations and building material combinations.

Most Midwest Ranch homes include full or partial basements ideal for total family recreation and game areas plus adequate storage area and the home style is most popular for families who like single floor living.

The Ranch home concepts are many and varied in styles and sizes but essentially were developed to offer a more casual living atmosphere with reduced traffic and maximum convenience and they offer the ideal construction for room additions and expansion.

Campanelli Will Add 300 Homes

Campanelli, Inc., Division of New America Industries, has purchased 100 additional acres of land in suburban Weathersfield in Schaumburg — consisting of 300 single family homes. When completed, Unit 20 will put Campanelli over the 5,000 mark in total number of homes built and sold in Weathersfield.

Unit 20 land is partially covered with century old oaks and maples. Every effort will be made to conserve the valuable trees. Homes and lots will be considerably larger in this new section of Weathersfield. Home prices will range from $32,000 to $45,000 and will include complete landscaping, extra large New England kitchen with maple kitchen cabinets and attached over-size garage.

The family-planned community has its own shopping center and elementary schools, an 11-acre community center, complete with two Olympic swimming pools and bathhouses, tennis and basketball courts, a baseball diamond, ice skating rink and social hall.

Blacktop streets, curbs, gutters, sidewalks and sewers are in and paid for. Ranches, split-levels, mid-entries and two-story models with three and four bedrooms and 1½ to 2½ baths are open for inspection seven days a week, until dark.

Weathersfield is convenient to the Milwaukee Road railroad at Roselle and the Chicago and North Western railway at Palatine. It is two miles from the Illinois toll road and 15 minutes from Randhurst shopping center. The Woodfield Mall Shopping Center is 5 minutes away. Models can be reached by taking Irving Park road about 5 miles west of Illinois Highway 53.

Condominiums Getting More Popular: Russwood

The condominium craze which is sweeping the U.S. has reached farther than you might think.

People who don't even realize it are, in effect, "buying condominiums."

That's the assertion of Henry J. Skorga of Lake Carroll, the recreational community near Shannon, Ill., 26 miles southwest of Freeport. Skorga is executive vice president of Russwood of Illinois, builder of the vacation community.

"When you buy a lot at a resort like Lake Carroll you are doing almost the same thing as buying a condominium," says Skorga. "People don't think of it in those terms — because most people associate condominiums with urban apartments, probably high-rise apartments at that."

"But the fact is that 'condominium' really defines a form of ownership — and there's a close parallel to ownership of, say a Lake Carroll homesite."

The parallel: When you buy a condominium, you buy clear title to an apartment (or town house, or in some places even a "villa"). It's yours to use, sell, or whatever. At the same time, most condominium communities — whether high rise buildings or clusters of "villas" — offer a host of private amenities for people who live in those communities. The condominium buyers don't exactly own these — and thus aren't personally taxed for them; rather it's that condominium ownership gives them entree to everything from swimming pools to golf courses which are closed to everybody else. (They may join clubs or property owners' associations which in turn lease recreation buildings and the like. Mechanics here vary from one condominium to the next — but the principle is the same.)

"When you buy a lot it's yours. Title is by general warranty deed with title insurance furnished by Attorneys Title Guarantee Fund of Illinois. And you're free to build or not, as you choose," explains Skorga.

"But ownership opens up a host of private resort facilities. You can enjoy the skiing, golf, tennis, fishing, boating and other water sports, the snowmobiling and snow touring trails, camping — all the attractions which have won Lake Carroll the label, 'The Great Escape.'"

Single Family Units Increase; Apartment Permits Decrease

July permits for single family units increased 12% over the comparable month of last year in the Chicago metropolitan area, according to the Bell Federal Savings Survey of New Building. However, apartments declined 20% in the same period.

Permits for single family units rose from 1,983 to 2,244, while multi-family permits dropped from 3,098 to only 2,468 last month.

Total housing units, including single and multiple permits, decreased 8% to 4,712 from the 5,091 reported in July 1971. Single family home permits issued during the first seven months of 1972 totaled 14,216, an increase of 6% over the 13,350 reported in the same period of 1971.

Year to date apartment volume at the end of July 1972 stood at 14,912, a decrease of 22% from the 19,026 recorded for the first seven months of last year.

Permits for all new housing for the first seven months of 1972 totaled 29,128 housing units, 11% below the 32,376 permits reported during the comparable months of 1971.

COUNTRY ACRES CONDOMINIUMS offer 1, 2, and 3 bedroom units with many amenities for owners and their guests, including two swimming pools, protected play grounds for children and complete maintenance year round of grounds, lawns and walks.

Rental Apartments Turned Into Condominium Living

Bringing the cost of living down through tax deductions is the idea behind the conversion of rental apartments to condominium ownership at Country Acres in Des Plaines.

Originally constructed as a complex of 8 buildings with greenway spaces, tennis courts and swimming pool, the selling of condominium units to renters has met little sales resistance due to the income tax savings that gives tax deduction allowances of $151 per month for the 1 bedroom condominium and up to $235 per month for the 3 bedroom.

The allowances are based on interest and real estate tax payments made by the condominium purchaser. The purchaser's actual tax saving depends on his tax bracket.

The two buildings being converted offer 1, 2 and 3 bedroom condominiums for as low as $19,900 for a 1 bedroom, $24,900 for a 2 bedroom, and $32,900 for the 3 bedroom units. Down payments of 10 per cent with up to 29 years financing at 7½ per cent is being offered.

The Country Acres units are in elevator buildings set in a park-like atmosphere. Most apartments have walk-in closets beside spacious storage closets located elsewhere. One and two bathrooms are provided. Ceramic tiling used throughout. Every room including the kitchen is carpeted wall-to-wall. And the all-electric kitchen includes color matched hooded range and 14-foot refrigerator. Work flow patterns are built into all base and wall cabinets.

The condominium units are protected by closed circuit television monitors. Owners are privileged to use the two swimming pools. One is outdoors and the other is an indoor heated pool. Tennis courts are also available as are protected playground areas for the children. Maintenance of grounds, lawns and walks is by a janitorial staff. Walks and access routes are kept swept year around.

A club house is under construction which will serve as a recreation center featuring lounges and game rooms with pool tables. Saunas will be available to owners and their guests. Country Acres Condominiums are located on Elmhurst Road (Route 83) 2000 feet south of Dempster St.

Age 40 Not A Millstone For Older Home-Buyers

Age 40 is a milestone — but no longer a millstone for the middle-aged home buyer.

Finding a long-term mortgage loan after 40 — almost out of the question a generation ago — is almost routine today.

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, who notes that a great many new home buyers over 40 are asking for — and getting — 20-, 25- and even 30-year mortgage loans.

Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., a subsidiary of Continental Investment Corp., also of Boston, is a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"For many years, lenders would determine the maximum length of a mortgage for a middle-aged applicant by subtracting his age from 65. Institutions figured that breadwinners — after retirement at 65 — would be unable to keep up their payments," Goss explains.

"TODAY, WITH MORE liberalized pension programs in business and industry, plus favorable loan experiences of lenders — which show that the plus-forty buyers are paying off their mortgage loans, regardless of length, in an average of seven years, — lending institutions are adopting a much more flexible attitude.

"There have been a number of occasions where retirees — over 65 — have successfully applied for 20-year mortgage loans. The lending institutions feel that the surviving spouse — if the borrower dies — can continue the payments, or an heir may well assume the responsibility."

"If anything," Goss points out, "the over-40 applicant for a long-term mortgage is likely to be a 'preferred risk.' He probably is a member of the 'fluid population' — moving from place to place at the direction of his employer — and already the owner of a sizable equity. Lenders can count on him for a large down payment when he buys. His earnings are substantially above average — he has already demonstrated his responsibility as a borrower."

"Even the lower income — over 40 — mortgage applicants are having less trouble finding loans. In many instances, lower cost condominiums or retirement villages are providing a desirable and reasonable home investment, particularly with long-term mortgage loans and low down payments — varying from area to area. Lenders are anxious to find borrowers — especially if the risk has been minimized by insurance, by substantial pensions and by other evidences of dependable money management."

"Most lending institutions want only the basic assurance that the borrower does not wind up over his financial head. But then, that is all any lender asks of any borrower — regardless of age," Goss concludes.

New Triplex Condominiums Are Open In Three Suburbs

The newest idea in condominiums anywhere is now a reality in three locations in the Chicagoland area. 3H Building Corporation has opened decorated models of triplex homes in the new towns of Park Forest South and has scheduled openings for models in Hanover Park and southwest suburban Bolingbrook. The homes were created by nationally known California architect, B. A. Berkus.

The totally unique structures contain three roomy, family-size homes — a pair of two-story models and an upper level ranch-style home. Two and three bedroom units are offered from the low to mid twenties.

"Triplex units represent a second generation departure from the fourplex concept in condominiums introduced two years ago," said William A. Maybrook, director of merchandising for 3H. "From a construction cost viewpoint, the triplex is more efficient, offering greater savings without sacrificing space and quality. Buyers, therefore, gain better value for their investment."

The new 3H condominiums demonstrate many of the design features which have brought architect Berkus to prominence in the United States. They have lots of glass, plenty of living space both indoors and outdoors on patios and balconies, and a brick and cedar look that adds texture and visual warmth. Grounds and walks are maintenance-free, permitting owners maximum time for personal and recreational pursuits.

IN CREATING its new triplex condominium, 3H studied the fourplex designs that have mushroomed in popularity. "We found that the ground-level ranch home that is a part of every fourplex design added a substantial cost factor to the price of the total building," said Maybrook. "Its almost independent location in the condominium structure made it the most expensive of the four units. By eliminating this unit in our new triplex condominium building, we have effectively achieved economies which permit us to enhance the space and value of the three remaining units," he said.

Architect Berkus took this concept and styled an elegantly rustic California design with numerous appealing features.

The two-story, three bedroom home features a bath and a half. The powder room is adjacent to the main entry foyer and stairway to the second floor. There is a large living room and dining "L" which has sliding door access to a covered patio area spanning the full width of the unit. In addition, there is direct entry from the attached garage to the utility room and full-convenience kitchen.

Upstairs, the big master bedroom has a large walk-in closet and sliding door access to a private balcony. The full bath is convenient to all three bedrooms and there is ample amounts of closet space and storage for clothing and linens.

The three bedroom ranch home has its own private entry at mid-level, a few steps down from the living area. It offers lots of living space and roomy bedrooms. Privacy to enjoy the out-of-doors is found on the balcony beyond the sliding glass doors in the dining area.

TWO BEDROOM homes in the 3H triplex condominiums offer many of the same features, plus large amounts of space in living and bedroom areas. All have the same patio and balcony features as like models in three bedroom homes.

The triplex condominiums offer such extra features as wall-to-wall carpeting, deluxe frost-free refrigerator, oven and range with hood, automatic disposal, and storage area in attached garage.

Model triplex condominiums are now open for viewing at Monterey Village in the new town of Park Forest South. They can be reached from I-57 to Lincoln Highway, then east to Western Avenue. Turn south on Western to Exchange, west on Exchange a half-mile to Burnham Drive. Smartly decorated models are open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on

UNIQUE TRIPLEX condominium townhomes like these are opening in three suburban communities. 3H Building Corporation has already introduced the homes at Monterey Village, in Park Forest South, where triplex condominiums are priced from $21,490 to $25,990. Similar two and three bedroom triplex townhomes are now open for viewing in Hanover Park and scheduled for southwest suburban Bolingbrook on September 15.

Inter-City Relocation Service Marks Record-Breaking Year

Gladstone, Realtors, covering the Northwest suburbs, is one of a record number of Inter-City Relocation Service members who helped more families move this year than in any comparable period in Inter-City's 12-year history.

The record-breaking increases were reported by John L. Markay, a partner in the Gladstone firm, on his return from the ICRS midyear meeting in Chicago. Markay represented the company's offices in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Franklin Park and Villa Park. At the meeting, he served on a panel discussing "Motivating Your Sales People Through Contests."

According to Markay, nearly 20 per cent more referrals — clients referred by one ICRS member to another for new community househunting help — were reported for the eight months ending June 30 than in a comparable period in 1970-71. The period is the first two-thirds of the ICRS fiscal year, which began Nov. 1, 1971.

House sales through the ICRS referral program were 45 per cent ahead of the November, 1970-June, 1971 period, Markay reported. Dollar volume was up by 53 per cent, he added.

"Average house sale was for $37,982, about $1,000 greater than the average transaction during fiscal 1971," Markay said.

ICRS membership passed the 600 mark, including members who joined at the midyear meeting.

"This represents a net increase of about 15 per cent since last Nov. 1," Markay pointed out. "The gain is the result of a planned campaign to select highly qualified brokers in communities not previously served by Inter-City members, in order to broaden our coverage."

"With the membership increase, we now can refer clients to fellow members who cover nearly 6,000 cities and towns in the U.S. and overseas for help in finding new homes," Markay said.

"When a member receives such a referral," Markay added, "he immediately contacts the client, answers questions about the client's new community, pre-selects homes that will meet the client's needs and gets other preliminaries out of the way."

"These necessary preliminaries are handled before the transferee or other client on the move leaves his former residence. Then, when the client is ready to make his first househunting visit to his new community, the ICRS member to whom he has been referred will make hotel reservations for him, meet him and his family at the airport and conduct him on a pre-arranged tour of available homes."

"Days, or even weeks, of househunting time are saved, compared with a family's arriving cold in a strange new city, with neither knowledge nor previously arranged contacts," Markay explained.

Builders' Group Sets Photo Contest

If you've managed to freeze on film an instant of the exciting action that characterizes Chicago's brawny construction industry or the artistry of a behemoth in quiet repose, it could be worth up to $500.

You still have about two months to enter the 1972 construction photography contest sponsored by the Builders' Association of Chicago, which has been opened this year to non-professionals as well as professional photographers. The organization of general contractors is offering $1,000 in prize money. Entries must be postmarked by no later than Nov. 1, 1972.

The first prize will be $500, second prize $300, and third prize $200.

Carl F. Mueller, chairman of the association's Publicity and Public Action Committee, said the competition is designed "to increase public awareness of the dynamic role the construction industry is playing in the growth of the Chicago metropolitan area." The Builders' Association is a trade organization of general contractors who operate in Cook, DuPage and Lake counties.

The contest is open to all photographers in the Chicago metropolitan area. Awards will be announced at the December quarterly membership meeting of the association.

Mueller said that all entries must be in black and white, must be of a positive nature, and must be mounted on 16 by 20 finished board, regardless of the size of the photo or printing technique.

Information to be provided on the back of the mount includes the photographer's name, address, telephone number, location of the construction job, name of the general contractor, date of photograph, and title of photograph (if any).

Photo stories will be judged as one entry and may be mounted on no more than three 16x20 mounts.

Photographs must be taken after June 1, 1972.

No more than one prize will be awarded to a photographer. All entries become the property of the Builders' Association of Chicago.

All entries and inquiries should be addressed to Chicagoland Construction Photography Contest, Builders' Association of Chicago, 228 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

'Case Studies In Commercial Property' Set

"Action speaks louder than words," states Realtor Harold G. Trimble, Jr., C.C.I.M. of Oakland Calif., instructor for "Case Studies in Commercial Property," which will be presented in Chicago on Sept. 25-29. The event, presented by the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, will take place at the Lake Shore Club of Chicago.

Associate Instructor Realtor William Strickfaden of Denver, Col., goes on to explain that the 5-day workshop session is action oriented, applying real estate theory to actual test cases, including studies in land assemblage, zoning problems, and conversion of buildings to alternative uses. The course is open to those who have successfully completed CID Course I or CID Course II, or MAI IA or MAI IB, or SIR I, or CPM I and CPM II, or having any one of the designations awarded by any of the NAREB affiliates.

Registration for "Case Studies in Commercial Property" may be made through the Registrar, Education Department, NIREB, 155 E. Superior St., Chicago, Ill., 60611.

With 19,000 members, NIREB is the largest professional organization affiliated with the National Association of Real Estate Boards and acts as its educational arm for Realtors and sales associates, offering this course and many others every year.

Strong Housing Market Requires Professionals

When the demand for homes exceeds the supply, sellers are often tempted to forego availing themselves of the skill and experience of professional Realtors in favor of trying to sell their homes by themselves to save paying a commission, or jack up the price of the home on the assumption that the law of supply and demand will support any price level.

"There is no question that we are in a market today in which a seller may be of the opinion that since buyers are so plentiful one can be found with no difficulty," notes Matthew R. Thorneycroft, vice president and district sales manager of the Baird & Warner, Inc., Elmhurst office, 446 N. York.

"Mortgage funds are plentiful, interest rates are attractive and there is a general sense of optimism about economic recovery."

But most experts feel that unless sellers have access to the same resources as real estate agents they stand to gain little if they opt to do-it-themselves.

"This is not to suggest that it is not possible to sell privately or 'off the market' and save the 6 or 7 per cent broker's commission. But if you are lucky enough to make a quick sale you may always be nagged by doubts that you may have asked too little for your home," he noted.

"Conversely, a worse mistake is to overprice your home. Even if you have all the time in the world to let the price settle down to a realistic level you may adjust the price to find you have already frightened off many of the best prospects. Also, any home on the market a long time may get a reputation of being a white elephant even though its biggest drawback is a stubborn owner who insists on setting an unrealistic price."

What causes the seller to err on either the upside or downside?

"The worth of a house is determined by people, not by economic bromides. There are no hard and fixed rules in real estate. You begin with a particular type of home in a certain condition in a given location. At any point in time all of these factors help determine the value of a home and the related task of setting a price."

"Then you plug in the dynamics. Life styles change and so do people, what they want, and what they are willing to pay for. Because people are changing the worth of a home is also changing."

The real estate agent is constantly working with a large crosssection of buyers and is familiar with their interests. He is also armed with an abundance of information on the going price of each type of home in various neighborhoods and communities.

"Unless you are tuned into the market on a day-to-day basis it is extremely difficult for the non-professional to find a realistic asking price."

"The seller will depend on hearsay about how much somebody else nearby got for a similar home. The reported figure and truth may be thousands of dollars apart. And the condition and location of two similarly-styled homes can also be vastly different. No two homes are that alike."

"The seller is also likely to exaggerate those factors important to him and his family and to disregard shortcomings to which he has become accustomed but which could discourage buyers."

Another common error is to try to fully recover the cost of home improvements. "The seller may not realize that buyers may take for granted some of the improvements that he has installed to combat obsolescence. Similarly, he may be reluctant to accept the fact that some alterations or improvements are meaningless to prospective buyers. We know of one man who built an elaborate darkroom for his photography hobby and raised the price of his house several thousand dollars when he put it on the market. He finally had to lower the price when he couldn't market his darkroom."

The real estate executive also noted that the seller forgets that buyers have been inspecting other homes in the market and they have sophisticated ideas of prices and alternatives. They get a pretty good idea of what's available and where the good buys are by shopping around.

Helping the seller to find a price neither too high nor too low, based on current and comprehensive information, is not all that the Realtor does for his commission, although it is one of his most important functions.

He is also an advertising expert, a sales specialist, a knowledgeable financier and a skilled negotiator.

"The selling job merely begins with setting a price. We have to find buyers either from our own company's extensive lists of names of people looking for homes, through the resources we have as members of multiple listing services, cross country referrals of transferred industry personnel, or through intelligent and well-planned advertising," said the Realtor.

The professional also knows how to prepare and present the product — commonly known as salesmanship.

"He is in a position to advise you on how to spruce up the homes for prospective buyers. He can compile all the information a buyer might want to know about the home and the community."

"Importantly, he can always maintain an attitude of professional objectivity. He is not emotionally attached to your house, overly sensitive to flaws you've learned to live with or over-anxious to close the deal. It's simply much easier for him, as a third party, to discreetly pursue a prospect, explore his objections, and to interpret his needs and interests in a manner that will lead to a favorable position."

Once the prospect has, with the help and guidance of a professional Realtor, come to the conclusion that the home is the best buy he can find for his family, there are some important steps still to be taken.

One is negotiating. Rarely will seller and buyer agree immediately on price and particulars of the sale and the real estate broker provides a perfect buffer to handle dickering and settling the details of an agreement.

Finally, and obviously, there can't be a sale unless the buyer has the money. When, as seller, you take matters into your own hands, you have no way to "qualify" a prospective buyer and you might wind up spinning your wheels over a would-be buyer who can't get a loan to buy your house. The pro can do this even before he takes the prospect to see your house. It's also usually easier for him to help the buyer to make financial arrangements because of established contacts with thrift institutions, unless you are planning to finance the purchaser yourself.

Summing up, the Baird & Warner executive noted the advice of Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine, which had this to say in a recent article on the subject: "Take care. Selling a house can be an intricate transaction. The path is strewn with little booby traps, and an impressive wad of money is at stake."

"That's why you should ask yourself whether this really is the occasion to give rein to your here-let-me-do-it instincts. Or is it a good time to get all the help you can?"

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM
MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

MAKE SURE THE PRICE IS RIGHT!

This is a fundamental that real estate agents stress. The value of your house is not what you think it is, or the buyer thinks. It is determined chiefly by the location, the neighborhood and the current market. So, first, you must get in line with the market.

That means realistic appraisal. A capable real estate company can bring in his own "team" of four or five salesmen who will individually price your home, and then reach a fair consensus. Or you can hire an independent appraisal by a qualified appraiser. If, after a few weeks, your home remains unsold, you should consider reappraisal. After an over-priced house has remained on the market for months, it becomes almost impossible to sell. Salesmen lose their enthusiasm, and prospects wonder what's wrong with it.

"Don't count on misplaced improvements to raise the price," expert real estate agents warn. There was the La Grange, Ill., resident who bought an $18,000 house in an $18,000 block, then spent $12,000 on improvements. He was transferred and forced to sacrifice his $30,000 investment for $24,000. Pricing a house right means pricing it on the neighborhood scale. If possible your price should also include curtains, draperies, refrigerator, dishwasher, built-ins. It's a better "package" deal and may hasten the sale.

LARWIN'S SPACEMAKER I home, one of five models on display at Tempo Village, Greenbrook Country, may be completed according to the needs of the family. The three bedroom, one-bath home may be finished with up to five bedrooms and two baths.

Spacemaker Home Designed To Grow With The Family

Two Larwin home models designed to grow right along with the expanding need for more space of growing families appropriately are named Spacemaker I and Spacemaker II.

Both models are offered in Tempo Village, one of three architecturally distinct communities within Larwin's 1,000-acre "Greenbrook Country" in DuPage County, located just off Lake St. (U.S. 20) one-half mile east of Barrington Rd.

"Home expandability is a must for the young family that looks forward to growing," observes Terry T. Bickel, newly appointed director of marketing for Larwin's Illinois Region.

"More children and an expanding level of activities such as hobbies, music, and other interests, require more living space. Unless a family plans for these living needs, they may face pressures of seeking a larger and more expensive home later on," adds Bickel.

Spacemaker I, most popular Tempo home, basically is a three bedroom, one-bath home, adaptable to five bedrooms and two baths. The home can be ordered with a large space left unfinished on the lower level which can be completed later according to the future needs of the family.

The lower level can be ordered with a fourth bedroom, bath, storage area, utility area, and spacious garden view family room with a wet bar. Another option, Bickel points out, divides the Spacemaker I's lower level into two bedrooms, with a bath, utility room, and larger storage area.

SPACIOUS UPSTAIRS of the home includes a formal entry foyer, dining room, dramatic living room, garden view kitchen and breakfast area, and three bedrooms. The Master Bedroom Suite features double door entry and separate entrance to the bath.

The home may be ordered with four exterior colonial columns, and an overhanging roof similar to the striking appearance of the model on display.

Price of the Spacemaker I starts at $40,490, and includes a two-car garage, appliances including refrigerator, range and oven, waste disposal, dishwasher, and washer and dryer in addition to carpeting in selected rooms.

Spacemaker II, priced from $39,490, also is a three bedroom, one bath home that may be finished with up to five bedrooms and two baths. Options include a one-car or two-car garage, and a lower level that can be left unfinished, or can be ordered to include a family room, fourth bedroom, bath and utility room, or a den/family room, two bedrooms, bath and utility room. Living room of the Spacemaker II is in the front of the home with the formal dining room and garden view kitchen with its breakfast area facing the rear yard. The upstairs bedrooms and bath all are in a raised area to the left of the entrance. Amenities include the same appliances and carpeting as the Spacemaker I.

THE SPACEMAKER HOMES are two of five decorator furnished models, with 20 exterior options, on display at Tempo Village in Larwin's Greenbrook Country. Tempo also offers extensive recreational facilities, large, landscaped Greenbelts, and safe, cul-de-sac streets.

Residents may call upon the Larwin Home Center for free professional decorating counsel and the purchase of additional home furnishings and appliances.

Greenbrook Country is being developed by Illinois Region of the Single Family Housing Division of The Larwin Group, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif. Larwin has built more than 28,000 homes in 56 communities since 1948.

Larwin also has major divisions in multiple family housing, mortgage banking, real estate investment trust management, recreational communities development, commercial development, and urban housing. Larwin is a subsidiary of CNA Financial Corp., a Chicago-headquartered management company with $4 billion in assets.

EVLYN HINES (left) and Lorraine Larsen of Arlington Realty, Inc. were recently honored for having achieved the $1 million sales goal in residential real estate for 1972. Both received an engraved silver bowl.

Women Hit $1 Million Sales

Evelyn Hines and Lorraine Larsen have both achieved the 1 million dollar sales goal in residential real estate for 1972, and were recently honored for their achievement at an awards presentation where they were each presented with an engraved silver bowl in honor of their early achievement. This is the 6th consecutive year for the two sales associates to reach the coveted million dollar sales figure. Both are lifetime members of the Arlington Realty Million Dollar Club.

Between them, they have sold more than 15 million dollars worth of real estate in the past five years. Both are longtime Arlington Heights residents. Mrs. Larsen has been associated with Arlington Realty for eight years and Mrs. Hines has been with the firm for seven years. Both are members of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

In 1971 Arlington Realty qualified six sales associates for the Million Dollar Club, but Mrs. Hines and Larsen are the first two to qualify this year.

Arlington Realty has 3 offices in Arlington Heights and Palatine, and a 4th office is now under construction in the Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates area. Plans are now being made to open the 4th office about October 1st.

Land Sale Announced

Arthur Rubloff & Co., Chicago-based real estate firm, announced this week the sale of 132,720 square feet of vacant land (3.04 acres) in Schaumburg Industrial Park, in Schaumburg, to Woodfield Hockey Center, Ltd. as the site for a new amateur hockey and recreational ice skating rink.

Richard R. LaReno, president of Rubloff's I.D.E.A. Division, developers of Schaumburg Industrial Park, negotiated the sale of the land on which a 24,500 square foot, one-story building also will be erected to provide concessions, dining and meeting room, locker facilities and a pro shop.

Wesley Bartlett is president of Woodfield Hockey Center, Ltd. George Becker served as owner's representative in the negotiations and Roger Baum of Gladstone Realtors was broker for the buyer.

Construction is commencing immediately, with the Center scheduled for completion by mid-November. The Center is located on Remington Road in Schaumburg Industrial Park, an area bounded by the Northwest Tollway, Golf Road, Plum Tree Road and Meacham Road. The land sold for approximately $90,000.

McCarthy-Hundrieser and Associates, Inc. are the architects for the new facility. Schaumburg Industrial Park is a joint project sponsored by Arthur Rubloff & Co. and State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of America.

THIS IS A FREE INVITATION TO GRAND OPENING III. FOR $23,150 YOU CAN STAY FOREVER.

Perhaps you don't think $23,150 will get you much these days.

At Village on the Lake, it gets you a way of living that's just about perfect.

It gets you wall-to-wall carpeting, air conditioning, appliances and your own private balcony.

It gets you right next door to Elk Grove Village yet a mere 35 minutes from the Loop.

At Village on the Lake, twenty-three grand even gets you beautiful landscaping and a full-time maintenance crew to keep it that way.

Plus a private 35-acre lake (we don't call it Village on the Lake for nothing), tennis courts, swimming pool and a delightfully appointed social room.

Most important, $23,150 gets you a spacious, attractive, very livable one-bedroom condominium home. And for a little more, you can get all of the good things listed above in an even more spacious two-bedroom model.

But don't believe everything you read in this ad. Come out and see for yourself during our Grand Opening of Building III.

Get your pick of the best views (imagine having breakfast on your balcony while you look out over the lake).

Poke around. Ask questions (like how much equity you'll build every month even with a minimum $1250 down payment).

Our models are open daily, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Saturday, to 6, Sunday, to 8.

Just exit the Northwest Tollway at Route 53 south, drive four miles to Biesterfeld Road and turn east to Village on the Lake (two blocks past Alexian Brothers Medical Center) for a 23-grand salute.

Realtor Urges Local Zoning Control

Preservation of the power of local government and zoning boards in matter such as housing projects and commercial and industrial developments was recommended Aug. 15 by the president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Realtor Fred C. Tucker Jr. of Indianapolis, in hearings before the Republican Platform Committee in Miami, urged that any party endorsement of pending land use policy bills should not approve the intervention of the federal government through money and economic sanctions in these areas.

Pointing out that basic Republican doctrine dictates that the power of decision in local matters should be reserved to local governments, Tucker said that "the President in his message to the Congress on revenue sharing expressed this doctrine most eloquently when he said that it was time to begin to reverse the flow of power in America away from the federal government and toward local government."

Legislation on land use presently pending in Congress, he said, would impose economic sanctions on states that did not promulgate statewide land use plans, which would include the power to reverse local zoning decisions.

THE PRESIDENT OF NAREB, which with Realtors and their sales associates, represents about 500,000 in real estate, said that the most perplexing social problem facing this nation today is that of the central or so-called inner city and that it demands a greater role of state and local governments working in partnership with private business, financial institutions, and civic leadership.

He noted that many metropolitan public housing authorities are either insolvent or facing insolvency, that crime and vandalism are common problems, and that so-called moderate-income subsidy programs have created concerns in many of our communities.

"Subsidies to families earning at least the median income have generated discontent and disillusionment among the millions of American families who have made the sacrifices necessary for home ownership without subsidies, and cause them to wonder what subsidies might now be in store for them," he said.

Tucker, referring to the disturbing state of the current subsidy program, urged the platform committee to adopt planks calling for limiting housing subsidies to families of low-income, and directing other efforts to the problem of providing greater access to housing, without subsidy, through improved technology and greater access to the capital market by broadening residential lending powers for private financial institutions.

He called for a plank urging provision of housing allowances to the needy so that such low-income families may compete in the market place for housing. The Republican-sponsored rent certificate program should be broadened to replace most of conventional public housing. EMPHASIZING THE importance of the platform reflecting the reversal of the flow of power from federal to local and state officials, he said that dedication to this concept must be adopted by local officials and the people themselves to solve their problems with the financial and technical aid — not direction — of the federal government.

Tucker turned to the economic situation and the counter-productive device of rent control.

"The current system of rent control should be terminated as soon as practicable," he said. The platform committee should adopt a policy that rent control be phased out "to be replaced by the forces of the free, competitive market which has served our nation so well in the past."

Tucker, who is a member of the federal Rent Advisory Board of the Price Commission, said "artificially imposed restrictions on rents serve to discourage investment in real estate, contribute to housing deterioration and abandonment, and foster misunderstanding between owner and tenant. The unfortunate experience of New York City is an all too graphic example of the results of long-term rent control."

Hedge Heating Bets

Horse players and those who dabble in the stock market have a slogan "Don't put all your eggs in one basket," which means, of course, not to risk everything on only one choice.

The slogan has taken on new meaning in the home comfort industry, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. It now reads, "Don't put all your heat in one place."

Heating engineers have long advocated that all heat distributors be spaced to eliminate all cold corners. In too many homes, one can alternately feel hot and cold merely by moving about in one room. The problem, says the council, is that the heat distributors are centrally located.

The solution is to "stretch" the heat so that it covers most of the outside wall, especially under the windows. The council notes that modern hydronic (hot water) home heating systems feature baseboard heating panels which are mounted at ankle height along the outer perimeter of the home. As the heat rises it literally creates a wall of warmth, eliminating all drafts, and bringing uniform heat throughout the room.

NCHP, headquartered in Washington, D.C., was created by Title IX of the Federal Housing Act of 1968 to assist in the production of low and moderate income housing, typically by investing funds in partnership with local groups.

According to George M. Brady Jr., president, NCHP has committed to invest $20 million in 150 developments in 28 states, for a total of 18,000 housing units of which some 8,500 are now under construction. Included in these figures is the 164-unit Lake Park Manor Village complex, sponsored by Interaction, Inc., at Lake Park Ave. and 37th St. in Chicago which is now completed.

Brady noted that the newly formed Management Advisory Council will assist NCHP in evaluating and improving the management policies and practices of NCHP housing. Sally is one of 12 charter members of the council, and will serve for one year.

As head of Baird & Warner's property management division, Sally heads one of the largest rental and management organizations in Chicago and suburbs. He lives at 1332 W. Park St., Arlington Heights.

Talman Starts Final Phase Of Expansion

Final phase of the current multi-million-dollar expansion and modernization program will start shortly at Talman Federal Savings and Loan Association, announced Bernard A. Polek, board chairman and president.

The north and original section of the organization's offices at 5501 S. Kedzie Ave. will undergo interior remodeling during the next several months. Teller facilities in this area will be replaced during construction by 18 temporary teller windows on the first floor center section, recently modernized as part of Talman's development program.

The original Talman structure, consisting of first floor, lower level and a small mezzanine will have distinctly modern and attractive appearance when remodeled. New recessed mercury-vapor lights will give softer, more flattering illumination. The units provide the same appearance of warmth as incandescent lighting. They are as efficient as fluorescent, but are more compact and thus reduce the crowded ceiling arrangement required in fluorescent installations.

The original air conditioning and heating system in service since the building was built in 1948 will be replaced by a more modern heating and cooling system. Revolving doors will be installed at the north entrance.

The safe deposit vault will remain in the present location on the lower level with additional booths installed for the convenience of customers.

The entire expansion-modernization program is expected to be completed by next spring. Customers will have access to Talman from 55th and Kedzie during the remodeling.

Watch For Double Die 1972 Pennies

During the next four months normal numismatic pursuits will hang in limbo until most of the newly discovered double die 1972 cents have either been found or accounted for. Finding one or more could spell the difference between a few cents and several dollars profit.

Such a phenomenon doesn't happen too often. As a matter of fact, this is the first real double die struck since 1955.

This particular specimen resembles the 1955 incident almost to the letter. Except for the extreme in degrees of the 1955 compared with the 1972, the double impression is just as noticeable in the latter. No official count is available on just how many pieces may have been struck, but Coin World estimates anywhere from 20,000 to 100,000. A total also proffered by Mrs. Mary T. Brooks, director of the Mint after an investigation at the Philadelphia Mint.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Alan Goldman, assistant director of technology for the Bureau, it is possible that two dies are involved; one striking a sharp double error, and the second doubling to a lesser degree but perfectly obvious.

Since used dies are destroyed about every two months, there is no routine manner in which the responsible dies that created the "freak" can be traced. One thing is sure. All remaining dies have been checked and, (forgive the pun) double-checked against the possibility of a similar occurrence.

A double die is the product of insensitivity rather than poor judgment. And if the operator lacked that necessary touch in the production of one die, it is conceivable that the next one he makes, especially if it is made the same day, will show signs of being similarly out of register. This may be the same conclusion Dr. Goldman arrived at when he stated it was probable that more than one die existed.

DOUBLE DIES occur when the expression or relief design of the "Hub" is being transferred to a negative impression on the face of a working die. The "Hub" is positive, just like the design on a one-cent piece. It is hardened and placed face down on the face of a die blank to be used in striking the finished coin.

The two pieces, stacked together much like placing one drinking glass on top of another, are then placed in a holder and brought together under 70 some tons of pressure. This makes one very small impression of the design in the working die.

The holder used originally is rarely, if ever, used again during the hubbing process. Each time the two pieces are placed on top of the other for ensuing strikes, the positive hub design is fitted into the negative die impression by the operator and placed under the press hammer.

THIS IS THE "turning point." If the operator misfeels or misjudges his alignment ever so slightly, the second strike starts a second impression in the die face. During the third strike, the two dies may register in the first impression or in the second impression. In either event, the finished working die will invariably contain two impressions in 95 per cent of its impression cavity. A hard thing to detect without close examination with a glass.

The Guide Book of United States Coins lists the 1955 Double Die Cent at $385. Uncirculated. What values will be placed on the 1972 Double Die remains to be seen. Some retailers are offering it at $50 but this could change, either way, in the next few weeks.

GRAND FINALE DESSERTS

CELESTIAL PEARS

- 1/3 cup white corn syrup
- 2/3 cup water
- 1/4 cup slivered preserved ginger
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon slivered orange peel
- Dash salt
- 5 or 6 fresh pears
- 1 (3 1/4 oz.) package vanilla pudding mix (not instant)
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup whipping cream
- Crushed Almond Sesame Brittle
- Maraschino cherries for decoration

Combine corn syrup, water, ginger, lemon juice, orange peel and salt in large saucepan. Bring to boil, lower heat and simmer 5 minutes. Pare and core pears from blossom end. Add pears to hot syrup; heat to slow boil. Cover and cook slowly, about 20 minutes, until pears are barely tender, basting occasionally. Lift pears from syrup; chill. Measure syrup, add water if necessary to make 1/2 cup. Turn pudding mix into saucepan; stir in milk. Add the 1/2 cup poaching syrup. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches full boil. (Mixture may look slightly curdled but will smooth out before it reaches boiling.) Cover and cool. Beat cream until stiff. Fold into cooled pudding and turn into shallow serving dish. Arrange pears in pudding. Top with crushed Almond Sesame Brittle and decorate with cherries. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Almond Sesame Brittle: Toast 1/4 cup whole or coarsely chopped almonds in slow oven (300 degrees) about 15 minutes. In separate shallow pan, toast 1 tablespoon sesame seeds 5 to 10 minutes, until lightly browned. Combine 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon water and 2 tablespoons butter in skillet. Cook, stirring, until light golden brown. Stir in almonds and sesame seeds; pour onto flat oiled baking sheet. When cold, break up and crush coarsely with rolling pin or mallet.

SEAFOAM PEAR PIE

- 1 (3 oz.) package lime flavor gelatin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/2 cup sweet sauterne, muscatel or white port
- 1 teaspoon grated lime peel
- 4 teaspoons lime juice
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon green food coloring
- 4 fresh pears
- Lime or lemon juice for pears
- 1 baked 9-inch pastry shell with fluted rim
- 6 maraschino cherries

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Stir in wine, lime peel and juice. Set aside 1/4 cup; chill remainder until mixture begins to thicken slightly. Beat cream with sugar. Fold cream and add food coloring into remaining thickened gelatin; chill until almost set. Pare, halve and core pears. Dice 1 pear and fold into creamy gelatin; spoon a little into pie shell. Brush remaining pear halves with lime or lemon juice and set them, points up, into gelatin. Spoon remaining creamy gelatin around them. Chill a few minutes longer. Meanwhile, chill the 1/4 cup clear gelatin until slightly thickened. Carefully spoon over top of pie. Decorate with cherries. Chill until firm, at least 4 hours, before cutting. Makes 6 servings.

Pastry: Resift 1 1/2 cups sifted flour and 1/4 teaspoon salt into mixing bowl. Add 1/2 cup shortening and cut in until mixture is fine. Slowly stir in 3 to 4 tablespoons cold milk or water, just until dough clings together. Shape into a ball and roll out to 10-inch diameter circle on floured board. Fit into a 9-inch pie pan and build up fluted rim. Prick crust liberally over bottom and sides with fork. Bake in hot oven (475 degrees) until golden brown, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cool before filling.

PEAK-A-BOO PEARS

- 6 fresh pears
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups water
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Rose pink food coloring
- Pastry

Pare pears, and remove cores from blossom ends, using vegetable peeler (or small end of melon ball cutter). Combine sugar, water, lemon juice and salt; heat to boiling, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Place pears in syrup and simmer, covered, for 5 minutes. Uncover, and turn pears carefully. Cook about 10 minutes longer, uncovered, basting frequently with syrup. When pears are tender, remove from syrup; cool slightly. Brush one side of each pear with 4 drops rose pink food coloring diluted with 1 teaspoon water. Prepare pastry. Roll pastry on lightly floured board to 1/8-inch thickness. Cut 6 (3-inch) circles. Reshape remaining dough, rolling to a rectangle 6x8 inches; cut into 12 strips 1/2-inch wide and 8 inches long. Set pears onto pastry rounds. Place two strips of pastry crosswise over pears, moisten ends, and tuck under edge of rounds, pinching together well. With trimmings, cut tiny leaves, moisten and press on top of pears. Set on baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 40 minutes, until pastry is crisp and golden brown. Brush sides of pastry lightly with poaching liquid the last 10 minutes of baking. Serve with Melba sauce, chocolate sauce or whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

Pastry: Resift 1 1/2 cups sifted flour with 1/4 teaspoon salt. Cut in 1/4 cup each butter and shortening. Add 4 to 5 tablespoons cold milk, using just enough to hold dough together. Shape into ball.

FRESH PEARS MELBA

- 6 baked tart shells
- Melba Sauce
- 4 fresh pears
- 1 1/2 pints vanilla or pistachio ice cream

Bake tart shells and prepare Melba Sauce. When ready to serve, pare, core and cut pears in thin slices. Arrange pears in tart shells. Top with ice cream and spoon Melba Sauce over all. Makes 6 servings.

Tart Shells: Prepare pastry as given in recipe for Seafoam Pear Pie. Divide into 6 equal portions; shape each into round ball. Roll each ball into 5-inch circle. Fit over backs of 4-inch wide, 1 1/2-inch deep fluted tart pans (or custard cups). Prick shells with fork; set on baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (475 degrees) until crisp and golden brown, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cool before filling.

Melba Sauce: Combine 1 (10 oz.) package frozen raspberries and 1/2 cup currant jelly in saucepan. Simmer 5 minutes. Blend 2 teaspoons cornstarch with 1 tablespoon cold water. Stir into berries. Cook and stir until mixture clears and thickens. Remove from heat and press through fine strainer to remove seeds. Chill before using. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

Low-Cal Luncheon Salads

With a little time, effort and planning you can again become that devastating slim, trim creature you always used to be. Regular exercise, good nutritional eating habits and a cheerful attitude toward your diet are three important weapons in fighting the battle of the bulge.

One good way to keep your spirits up is to eat very low calorie lunches, enabling you to enjoy almost the same dinner the rest of the family is eating. Remember, cutting calories does not necessarily mean cutting down on important nutrients or on flavor.

Pickle Carousel Mold and Slim Down Salad recipes should be staples in your Shape-Up file. A smaller portion of the molded salad also makes a good between meal snack and serve it to non-dieters as a refreshing accompaniment to grilled hamburgers.

PICKLE CAROUSEL MOLD

low-calorie lemon flavored gelatin
¾ cups boiling water
¼ cup sweet pickle liquid
12 very small sweet gherkins
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped sweet gherkins
½ cup chopped celery
2 canned pimientos, chopped
3 cups (24 ounces) creamed cottage cheese

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water in bowl; stir in pickle liquid. Pour ¾ cup gelatin mixture into 6½ cup ring mold; chill until partially set. Arrange whole gherkins in the gelatin and chill again. Meanwhile, add horseradish, salt, chopped gherkins, celery and pimiento to remaining gelatin. Set bowl in larger bowl of ice cubes. Stir until mixture begins to thicken. Pour over gelatin layer in ring mold. Chill until firm, about 2 hours. Unmold onto plate. Fill center with cottage cheese. Garnish with additional pickle slices and pimiento. Makes 6 servings.

Total calories: Approximately 672
Calories per serving: Approximately 112

SLIM DOWN SALAD

3 cups creamed cottage cheese (24 ounces)
¾ cup chopped dill pickles
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon dill pickle liquid
6 medium tomatoes
Lettuce or watercress
Combine cheese, pickles, salt, pepper and pickle liquid, mix well. Cut each tomato into 4 wedges, with a sharp knife, without cutting all the way through; spread wedges apart. Pile cottage-dill mixture in the center. Garnish with lettuce or watercress and sliced dill pickles, as desired. Makes 6 servings.
Calories per serving: Approximately 126.

Weight Watchers Head Chef

He Dreams Up Recipes For Dieters

by JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—When Franco Palumbo calls himself a sloppy chef, he's talking about his messy kitchen, not his personal appearance.

It wasn't always so. By the time he graduated from high school, the roly-poly child had grown into a 240-pound youth, five feet, seven. During two years of chef's training that followed, he lost 55 pounds. Diet pills helped.

In an interview, Palumbo said he weighed 190 in 1962 when he went into the Army and shipped out to Europe. He gained 23 pounds in three weeks there and by 1969, he was up to 265 pounds.

Today, he is a trim 160 and a non-stop talker about successful weight control. He's also executive chef for the world's largest weight reduction organization, Weight Watchers International, Inc.

THE STORY of how he achieved both goals sounds like fiction. Palumbo first joined a weight reduction class in 1969, while he was working as a chef in both a restaurant and a bakery on the resort island of Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

He was the only man among 40 women but he stayed on the program nine months, lost 105 pounds and ended up as a lecturer himself. A magazine article about him led to the promotion to head chef. In that capacity, he develops and tests menus, and recipes for a monthly newsletter and a girls' camp near Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

"I was a professional dieter," Palumbo now says. "Most of our three million members are. They can tell you the calorie count of any food at the drop of a hat. They've tried the ice cream diet, the banana diet, the grapefruit and egg diet, the spinach and egg diet."

HIS CHEF'S job may sound incompatible with either dieting or weight maintenance, and not just because of the constant availability of food. Any chef worth his toque blanche (tall white hat) must sample as he cooks. Palumbo said he solved that problem long before he accepted his present job. He followed a friend's advice to use the wine tasting technique: taste anything you want but don't swallow it.

Palumbo still hits the lecture trail for the parent organization. He said his trips have taught him to recognize men's biggest cop-out. Those who travel a lot use necessary business entertaining as an excuse to overeat.

"There are few restaurants where you can't order something that fits the rules," he said. "I ate 21 meals out a week for two weeks and lost 14 pounds."

"ALL RESTAURANTS have tomato juice, plain bouillon, fruit cup or melon, half a grapefruit, steaks, roast beef, chicken, broiled fish."

"You can order vegetables without butter and salads without dressing. You can have a 3-ounce baked potato or half a cup of rice."

Palumbo himself thinks nothing of taking along his own bread — one regular slice, halved horizontally — to use for a sandwich in a restaurant.

"If you toast it lightly, you can slice it with a serrated-edge knife," he said.

"You can take your own salad dressing. I usually carry diet margarine in cool weather."

He also carries packets of onion bouillon and asks the chef to use it instead of butter in broiling fish.

"You're paying for it when you order food prepared without butter. Send it back if it comes with butter. Or ask for another plate and a linen napkin and use the napkin to blot up as much butter as you can."

Palumbo conceded that the napkin trick doesn't endear him to restaurant staffs, but he gets away with it anyhow.

CHEF FRANCO Palumbo's macaroni cheddar salad bowl is a Weight Watchers International recipe that sounds fattening

In a salad bowl, combine 1 tablespoon each of vegetable oil, wine vinegar, water and mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon each of prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce, artificial sweetener equal to 2 teaspoons of sugar and salt and white pepper to taste. Mix until smooth. Add 1 1/3 cups of cooked enriched elbow macaroni, 2 ounces of cheddar cheese, grated, 2 teaspoons of dehydrated onion flakes, 2 tablespoons of chopped pimiento and ¼ of a green pepper, seeded and diced. Mix well. Chill before serving on lettuce leaves. Makes 2 servings. Garnish each with 1 hard-cooked egg, quartered.

by Fran Heckart

Beginning Tuesday, manufacturers may add sodium acid pyrophosphate (SAPP) to their hot dogs, bologna and other cooked sausages to speed the curing process, as the result of a recent decision by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The additive, which has been declared safe for this use by the Food and Drug Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will be permitted in amounts up to one-half of one per cent of the meat product part of the sausage formula. Data on the additive show that SAPP effectively speeds the action of curing ingredients, according to officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service. Glucose delta lactone, an organic compound, is currently approved for this use.

SAPP is already commonly used in baking powders and cake mixes and is permitted in such meat products as cured hams, bacon, pork loins and cooked hams to reduce the amount of cooked out juices.

It isn't likely that consumers will find more and cheaper steaks and beef roasts in the grocer's meat counter in the near future.

President Nixon's recent action lifting quotas on meat imports through the end of 1972 may result in some increase in U.S. meat supplies. But the increase isn't likely to come in the form of steaks, roasts and other higher priced cuts.

A board composed of government officials, meat officials, people with a vital interest in sales and Department of Agriculture experts together estimated the amount of what would be available in 1972 for export to the United States. The "guess" or compromise figure arrived at was 1,240 million pounds. That comes to 128 million pounds more than we imported last year. The eating appeal of this extra meat, less than a pound per person, is limited to hamburger and frankfurter lovers.

Most of the imported meat falls into the "boneless beef" category, according to Brice Kirtley, University of Illinois livestock marketing economist.

"Boneless beef" is the kind used in manufacturing hamburger, hot dogs, bologna, sausage and various other ground beef products.

The extra beef will be imported from Australia, New Zealand, both Ireland and Northern Ireland, Canada, Mexico and a few Central American countries. The cattle in all of these countries are free of hoof and mouth disease — a contagious virus disease of cattle that has been eradicated in this country.

The president's action merely removes restrictions on how much meat may be imported during the rest of the year. (Last year we imported 1,112 million pounds of manufacturing beef.) Lifting the quotas in no way lowers the requirements for health and sanitation that producers wishing to sell beef to the United States must meet, according to Kirtley.

In general, lowering of beef prices as a result of this increase of foreign manufacturing beef cannot be predicted. That goes for steaks, roasts, pot roasts and round steak. In fact, several sources feel that prices for these are expected to go even higher. So unless you plan to live off hamburgers, chili, frankfurters and sausage, don't set your hopes on any lowering of meat prices.

Sallymae Borg's Breakfast Cookies

They're Packed Full Of Taste, Nutrition

by LOIS SEILER

You can send your children off to school with a smile when you serve them cookies for breakfast!

Shocked at such a suggestion? These aren't chocolate chip or marshmallow cookies, mind you, but nourishing treats that contain all the nutrients of a complete breakfast.

The cookies are made by Mrs. Lester W. Borg of Arlington Heights for her four children: Bill, 18, Susan, 17, Robert, 9, and Larry, 8.

"The younger ones think they are getting away with something," Sallymae Borg chuckled, "but they also love the flavor. And the cookies add variety to breakfast menus."

Although Sallymae and her husband, Lester, might prefer a hearty breakfast of bacon and eggs, they join the children in an occasional cookie breakfast and enjoy them, too.

One type of breakfast cookie calls for Post Raisin Bran, crisply fried bacon bits and an egg mixed into a cookie-like batter. The other has Grape Nuts, bacon, orange juice concentrate and orange peel in its batter. They are baked in the conventional manner, on cookie sheets in the oven.

As accompaniments, Sallymae serves milk and juice or perhaps a bowl of fruit.

Sallymae has been cooking since she was 11 years old, helping out her mother who worked while her father was in service during World War II. One recipe that has been a favorite of hers for years is called simply "Easy Meal."

"It doesn't sound like anything, but it's worth a try," Sallymae explained. "Men especially like this casserole and I've had great success with it for a large crowd."

She makes the basic recipe for her family and doubles, triples or quadruples it when having guests, depending on how many are to be served.

The casserole consists of only four ingredients: cooked Creamettes, canned corn, browned ground beef and chopped green pepper. Mixed together a day ahead, the tasty dish is baked two hours before serving.

"It is a solid-type casserole, but is definitely not dry," Sallymae commented.

Because "Easy Meal" is a complete meal-in-one, she suggests fresh apple sauce or a salad and French bread as accompaniments.

Sallymae is an avid recipe collector and can't resist clipping and trying new recipes. She's also fond of gardening, likes to arrange flowers and has taught children about planting as a volunteer at Kensington School.

She's also secretary of the Kensington PTA, a member of the Arlington Heights Garden Club and will be a cub scout den mother this fall.

BREAKFAST COOKIES

- 1 cup all-purpose flour (unsifted)
- ¾ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ cup crisp, well drained bacon bits (8 to 10 slices)
- ½ cup soft margarine or butter
- 1 egg
- 2 cups Post Raisin Bran

Measure into a bowl the flour, sugar and soda. Mix and add bacon bits, butter and egg. Mix by hand until all ingredients are well blended. Stir in cereal.

Drop by tablespoonsful, two inches apart, onto an ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees 13 to 15 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned but still soft. Cool slightly before removing from baking sheet. Makes 2 dozen. Store in a baggie. Cookies will keep up to two days.

BREAKFAST COOKIES

- 1¼ cups all-purpose flour (unsifted)
- 2/3 cup sugar
- ½ cup Grape Nuts cereal
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
- ½ cup soft-type margarine
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed and undiluted
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel

Measure flour, sugar, Grape Nuts and baking powder into a mixing bowl and mix well. Add bacon, margarine, egg, orange juice concentrate and peel. Mix by hand until well blended.

Drop by level tablespoonsful two inches apart onto ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until edges of cookies are lightly browned but cookies are still soft. Remove from baking sheet immediately. Makes 2½ dozen. Store in plastic bag but do not keep longer than a couple of days.

EASY MEAL

- 1 small package Creamettes
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 small can kernel corn
- 1 small green pepper, chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cook Creamettes until solid but not mushy. Drain. Brown ground beef. Drain off about ¾ of the juice from the corn.

Combine Creamettes, browned beef, the corn with a little of its juice and green pepper. Season with salt and pepper. Refrigerate overnight.

The next day, before serving, bake for two hours at 300 degrees. Serves 4 to 6.

FRIENDS OF ROBERT and Larry Borg must be envious. Sometimes their mother, Mrs. Lester Borg of Arlington Heights, serves them cookies for breakfast . . . but an especially nutritious kind of cookies. These flavorful cookies, combined with milk and juice or fruit, allow a change in the usual breakfast menu.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

Should your travels take you to Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, some day, don't miss the adventure of eating at Kowloon Restaurant (109 St. Vincent) where a superb Cantonese dinner awaits.

Under the efficient direction of J.Y.K. Mack, who met us at the door and upon request ordered dinner, the Kowloon serves delightful food amidst typical Fu Manchu surroundings.

Our meal started with Trinidad prawns, lightly sauteed then smothered in a creamy white sauce, egg drop soup, delectable egg rolls; then came the most unusual of dishes, a secret recipe of Mr. Mack.

By some legerdemain, whole milk, with just enough shredded crab to provide subtle flavor, is served in the consistency of a light omelette, placed on a bed of incredibly thin and crisp noodles, and garnished with tiny chips of ham.

We were served three main dishes, Chow Kai Kow (chicken), an abalone dish and delicious sweet and pungent pork, accompanied by fried rice as good as I have eaten anywhere.

SWEET AND PUNGENT pork, when done correctly, is a genuine treat. In fact, among the Chinese, it is said that if you have not tasted Niw Goo Yuk, you have not lived.

Preparation followed by quick cooking is a secret with almost any Chinese dish. This is done by the chow method, or stir frying.

You'll need ½ pound pork tenderloin, 1 large green pepper, 1 small sliced carrot, 2 rings canned pineapple, garlic powder, cornstarch, vinegar, pepper, soy sauce, sugar, MSG, Chinese bead molasses, salt and 3 cups cooking oil.

To make ready for the dish, cut the pork tenderloin into ¾-inch cubes or ½-inch strips. Wash and seed the green pepper and cut into 1-inch pieces. Mix 1 tablespoon cornstarch with 1 tablespoon water and set beside the pan.

Make the sweet-sour solution by mixing ¼ cup vinegar, ½ cup water, dash of black pepper, 1½ teaspoons soy sauce, 5 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate and garlic powder to your taste. If you really like garlic flavor use 1 clove minced.

PUT 3 TABLESPOONS cornstarch, or a little more if needed, in a flat pan and dredge pork cubes thoroughly. Add 1 tablespoon sherry very slowly until each cube of pork is coated with a thick, heavy paste. Heat oil in wok or deep pan to 375 degrees and drop in the pork cubes. They will float when done. Leave in until golden brown, then remove and drain on paper toweling.

Using high heat, put in ½ teaspoon salt and sweet-sour solution and bring to boil. Add cornstarch solution and stir until it thickens. Next add vegetables and pineapple and stir. Add pork and Chinese bead molasses and stir quickly but thoroughly until gravy coats all ingredients. Serves 2.

PEACHY LUNCH BOX COOKIES

- Filling: 1 can (29 ounces) cling peach slices
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ cup peach syrup
- ¼ cup chopped walnuts

Care Of Aluminum

Use proper techniques when cooking in aluminum. Spills and boilovers should be wiped with a damp cloth immediately. Don't give food deposits time to harden. After utensil has cooled, rinse it immediately.

- ¾ cup brown sugar
 - ¾ cup corn flake crumbs
 - ½ cup oil
 - 1 teaspoon nutmeg
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - ¼ cup wine or orange juice
- Combine all ingredients and bake in ungreased mold or casserole for one hour at 350 degrees.

HERRING SALAD

- 1 large jar herring snacks
 - 1 bunch scallion greens (not bulbs) diced
 - 1 grated carrot
 - 1½ tablespoons sugar
 - 1½ teaspoons mustard seed
 - 1 cup sour cream
- Cut herring into very small pieces. Add onion greens and carrot. Add sugar, mustard seed and sour cream. Marinate overnight and serve cold. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Lunch Box Cookies

For Lunch, After School

- juice
- Dough: ¾ cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- ¾ cups sifted all purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup milk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Filling: Drain peaches, reserve syrup.

Combine peaches, cinnamon, nutmeg and syrup in medium size sauce pan. Cook over medium heat 15-20 minutes or until mixture cooks down to a jam-like consistency. Remove from heat, stir in walnuts and lemon juice. Set aside to cool.

Dough: Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs, mixing well. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk and vanilla. Mix well after each addition. Roll dough 1/8-inch thick on floured surface.* Cut into 2½-inch rounds. Place on lightly greased cookie sheet, placing level teaspoon of filling on half of rounds and cover with another round. Seal edge with tines of fork. Bake in 400 degrees F. (hot) oven 15 minutes or until lightly browned.

Yield: Approximately 2½ dozen cookies.

Main Dishes That Save You Money

You can combat the war on your pocketbook by how to serve your family nutritious, interesting meals and still have some pennies left over at the end of the week.

There are many tricks to saving money in food buying. Remember that red meat is not the only source of protein. Poultry, fish, eggs, cheese, dry beans and dry peas are all high in this essential nutrient.

For the money you spend on meat and meat substitutes, you get half of the protein supplied by your daily food and a fourth or more of the food energy, iron, vitamin A, the B vitamins — riboflavin and thiamin, plus other minerals and vitamins.

As you try some of these main dishes, don't forget to plan the rest of the meal as well. Besides two or more servings daily from the meat group, you should include four or more servings from the vegetable-fruit group, four or more from the bread-cereal group and appropriate amounts from the milk group, depending on the ages of the people you are feeding.

Baked Fish: For six 3-ounce servings, use about 3 pounds fresh or frozen fish. Thaw frozen fish or clean, wash and pat dry fresh fish. Sprinkle inside with salt and pepper and brush with 2 tablespoons oil or melted fat. Place in greased 15x10x1 inch baking pan and bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 60 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Go-Further Hamburgers: Mix 1 slightly beaten egg, 1/3 cup water, 3 slices bread crumbs or cubes, ¼ cup chopped onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon ground pepper. Add 1 pound ground beef and mix thoroughly. Shape into 12 thin or 6 thick hamburgers. Heat 1 tablespoon fat in a heavy frypan over moderate heat.

Brown hamburgers on both sides, turning once. Reduce heat and continue cooking, if needed, until meat is no longer pink when a knife is inserted into the center. Thin hamburgers take about 8 minutes total cooking time. Thick ones take about 16 minutes. You can also broil hamburgers. Cooking time is about the same.

Cheese Rarebit: Combine 1 beaten egg, 1¼ cup milk, 3 cups shredded cheese, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and ½ teaspoon dry mustard. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until cheese melts and mixture is slightly thickened.

Stir in 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento and serve immediately on toast or crackers. Makes six servings, 1/3 cup rarebit each.

Rosh Hashanah, Time Of Tradition

by AILEEN CLAIRE

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year (Sept. 9-10), differs from the calendar New Year in that it is not a time of whoopee, of abandoned revelry that signals the year's last fling. Rosh Hashanah is "a time to take stock of ourselves," according to a St. Louis, Mo., rabbi, "and try to right the wrongs we have committed."

Gathering of the family and close friends is important and food is an essential part of the ritual of "thanking God for letting us live and reach this season." Traditional foods include the challah, apples dipped in honey for a sweet new year, herring for fruitfulness, sweet carrots resembling small gold coins as a hope of prosperity in the coming year and honey cake.

For Rosh Hashanah here are Honey Cake, Carrot Tzimmes and Herring Salad recipes from the cookbook, "From Generation to Generation," kitchen-tested Kosher recipes compiled by The Woman's Touch, B'nai Amoona Sisterhood, St. Louis, Mo.

HONEY CAKE

- 6 egg yolks
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup oil
- 1 cup honey
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon ginger
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup cold coffee
- 6 egg whites

Beat egg yolks well. Add sugar, oil and honey. Alternate dry ingredients with coffee and mix thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff and then fold into batter. Put in an ungreased tube pan and bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

CARROT TZIMMES

- 1 cup grated raw carrots
- 1 cup grated raw sweet potatoes
- 1 cup grated raw apples

School Lunch Program For Senior Citizens

by JEANNE LESEM

Friendship is as important as food in a senior citizen's lunch program in Massachusetts schools.

Social contacts made in school lunchrooms are the real bonus, says Marion L. Cronan, who has helped supervise the program since its inception as a preproject in the Brookline school system in 1968.

Miss Cronan is director of homemaking and school food services in the Boston suburb. Her district was one of the first selected because it had the highest percentage in the state of persons 65 years and older.

The program is funded by a special federal grant to the State Council on Aging, and it receives donated foods from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service.

As a result, senior citizens pay only 50 cents per meal. So far, no one in the Brookline program has been unable to afford this token sum, and Miss Cronan is confident that agency assistance could be found if needed.

The ability to pay is an important part of the program, because it avoids the stigma of charity, but Miss Cronan said in a letter that she sees other equally important social benefits.

BEFORE THE lunch program began, some elderly men and women wouldn't even dress and leave their rooms during the day. Now they eagerly don their best clothes five days a week to meet new friends over a hot lunch at school.

A similar reaction is reported from other cities that have tried the program, including Santa Fe, N.M., Eau Claire, Wis., and Avon, Conn. In Santa Fe, several friendships even led to marriage.

A growing number of cities provide home delivery of meals for the elderly, but Miss Cronan feels that eating together in school lunchrooms has several advantages over the other system.

For one thing, the aged enjoy watching the children whose lunch hour precedes theirs, and the youngsters relate well to the older group. Miss Cronan said she thinks the young people respond better to the elderly than they do to many middle-aged persons, who may represent the authority of parents or teachers.

The Brookline project attracts outside visitors.

"Schools of nursing send students who are studying geriatrics," she wrote. "Students in public health or nutrition often visit, and people from other communities come to see how it works."

A representative from the Brookline Multiservice Senior Center is there daily to chat informally with the men and women. She refers those with medical problems to the health department or sends a visiting nurse to their homes. She has helped some find new living quarters and she arranges psychiatric and social help for those who need it.

MANY OLDER persons' eating habits are notoriously poor, but Miss Cronan said the program quickly demonstrated that some of the elderly are eager to learn about good nutrition.

She added that older people generally tend to eat too much bread, cereals and sweets and too little meat, fish, poultry, fruit and vegetables. One woman told Miss Cronan that her lunch, before the school program was launched, had consisted of an English muffin and coffee at a fast food service restaurant. The cost was 40 cents — only 10 cents less than she now pays for a full hot meal.

The school program is continued during the summer session, but five meals a week during the school year isn't adequate, in Miss Cronan's view, and she hopes the Older Americans Act of Congress soon will make possible delivery of meals to the housebound and those on special diets. She'd also like to see it expand to include breakfast and/or supper.

"Schools should be open to serve the community — not just for children — but also adults at all hours," she wrote. "We have an obligation to care for those who need our service, to provide adequate nutrition in attractive surroundings, seasoned to give pleasure to the palate and warmth and joy to the heart."

Sherbet Shrubs To Cool Off

When guests are at hand, neighbors drop in or just when you want to surprise your family with a special treat, offer sherbet shrubs.

They're mellow, icy cold and tangy... all are based on refreshing citrus juices. Serve them with cookies, cake... or let them solo.

Easy to make, too. For Minty Sherbet Shrub, fill decorative glasses with crushed ice; if you choose, add a little grenadine for fruity flavor and pinkness. Pour over grapefruit juice mixed with pineapple sherbet and bitters and garnish with fresh mint. Icy Orange Shrub is served over crushed ice, too, and it's a delicious combination of frozen orange juice, lemon sherbet and apricot preserves. Serve with straws and sip slowly as the ice melts to savor the refreshment.

Pink Fizz Shrub is bound to delight children. It teams grapefruit juice with raspberry jam, raspberry sherbet and club soda. It's pretty and pink and just sweet enough. And any citrus drink with its Vitamin C offers children quality nutrition.

Tahiti Shrub is as exotic as it sounds. It's a drink that you whiz in a blender, combines milk, cream, coconut, orange juice, and orange sherbet. If you really want to dazzle guests or family, top with whipped cream and grated orange rind.

MINTY SHERBET SHRUB

1 can (6 ounces) frozen grapefruit juice concentrate, reconstituted
1/4 teaspoon bitters
Crushed ice
Grenadine syrup, optional
Mint sprigs
Soften pineapple sherbet; add reconstituted grapefruit concentrate with bitters and stir until well blended. Fill 8 large glasses with crushed ice. Add grapefruit juice mixture. If desired, pour 1 tablespoon grenadine syrup over ice in each glass. Garnish with mint sprigs. Yield: 8 servings.

ICY ORANGE SHRUB

1/4 cup apricot preserves
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
Crushed ice
Soften sherbet; blend with apricot preserves. Stir in undiluted orange concentrate. Fill 8 large glasses with crushed ice. Add orange mixture; stir. Serve with straw and sip slowly as ice melts. Yield: 8 servings.

PINK FIZZ SHRUB

6 tablespoons (1/2 6-ounce can) frozen grapefruit juice concentrate thawed, undiluted
1 cup raspberry jam
1 pint raspberry sherbet
2 bottles (12 ounces each) sparkling water, chilled
Stir undiluted grapefruit concentrate into raspberry jam. Place scoops of raspberry sherbet in tall glasses; add grapefruit concentrate and jam mixture. Fill glasses with chilled sparkling water and serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

TAHITI SHRUB

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup light cream

Nonfood Items Increase Your Grocery Bill

Increased food prices do account for some of the increased spending at the supermarket, say University of Illinois Family Economists Jeanne L. Hafstrom and Marilyn M. Dunsing, but don't forget those nonfood items you buy there.

Sales of soaps, health and beauty aids, paper products, alcoholic beverages, tobacco, and pet food represented more than one-fourth (27.7 per cent) of the value of grocers' sales in 1970. This means that the average $20 grocery bill includes $5.54 worth of nonfood items.

Consumers spent $21.8 billion at the grocery store for nonfood items in 1970 — 10 per cent more than they spent in 1969. By comparison, for food purchases consumers spent $56.9 billion in 1970 for 6 1/2 per cent more than they spent in 1969.

THE ECONOMISTS point out that meat, poultry and fish sales together accounted for about 26 per cent of grocery store sales in 1970. By comparison, non-food items accounted for 28 per cent of the grocery store sales that year. The average grocery store manager can count on taking in about as much money from sales of housewares and household supplies (including paper products) as he receives from dairy products, and more money from pet food than eggs.

The top-selling nonfood items, in terms of their importance in total store sales, are: housewares and household supplies (more than 6 per cent; alcoholic beverages (5 per cent); tobacco (4 per cent); and health and beauty aids (3.6 per cent). Other nonfood items, such as pet foods and magazines, each contributed less than 2 per cent to total sales.

6 tablespoons (1/2 6-ounce can) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
1/2 pint orange sherbet, slightly softened

2 ice cubes

Combine all ingredients in blender container. Process at high speed for about 10 seconds. Serve immediately in chilled glasses. If desired, top with whipped cream and sprinkle with grated orange rind. Yield: 2 large drinks.

Note: Recipe may be doubled if blender container will hold 5 cups.

Louisiana Yams For Fall Meals

What do you do with a leftover? To make a completely new and easy-to-prepare meal from those leftovers, fix a meat and vegetable casserole that helps ease the grocery bill and yet adds color and imagination to fall menus.

One vegetable that's ideal for such casseroles is the Louisiana yam — and the fall crop of yams is being harvested right now. The return of fresh fall yams to the market is celebrated every October in Louisiana with a Yambilee harvest festival. And Louisianans know that in addition to enhancing meats and other vegetables, their yam adds important Vitamin A and Vitamin C in fall meals.

Hearty Yam-Ham Cauliflower Casserole uses leftover ham creatively. To make mealtime even easier, the casserole can be prepared in advance and stored in the refrigerator. While it's baking, toss a crunchy green salad, brown some dinner biscuits and in less than half an hour you have a brand new dinner.

Vary Tomato Aspic With Vegetables

Tomato aspic merely calls for the blending of tomato juice and unflavored gelatin, plus a bit of lemon juice and Tabasco for flavor heightening. Practically two-ingredient easy, it might be varied by adding diced celery and green pepper and shredded cabbage or by sliced stuffed olives and diced cucumber.

Four servings of aspic require an envelope of unflavored gelatin and a scant two cups of tomato juice. The envelope of gelatin is softened in 1/2 cup of cold tomato juice, and only this amount of the aspic mixture is placed over hot water or over low, direct heat and stirred until the gelatin dissolves. The remaining, seasoned cold tomato juice is added and the aspic is ready to be chilled until firm.

If solid ingredients are to be added, the gelatin-tomato mixture is first chilled to the consistency of unbeaten egg white. This slight chilling prevents the diced vegetables from rising to the top or sinking to the bottom of the mold.

EASY TOMATO ASPIC

 1 1/4 cups tomato juice, divided
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon sugar
 1/2 teaspoon

Worcestershire sauce

1/8 teaspoon Tabasco
 2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice
 Sprinkle gelatin on 1/2 cup of the tomato juice in saucepan to soften. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat; add remaining 1 1/4 cups tomato juice, salt, sugar, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco and lemon juice. Pour into a 2-cup mold or individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on platter. If desired, garnish with avocado slices and salad greens. Yield 4 servings.

Note: Recipe may be doubled for 8 servings.

Perfection Aspic: Follow directions for tomato aspic. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in 1 cup finely shredded cabbage, 1/2 cup diced celery and 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper. Turn into a 3-cup mold; chill until firm.

Olive Cucumber Aspic: Follow directions for tomato aspic. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Mix in 1/4 cup sliced stuffed olives and 1 cup diced cucumber. Turn into a 2-cup mold; chill until firm.

Two new ways to make your own granola.

Long before cold cereals were common, Grandma made her own—with Quaker Oats and other natural ingredients. She called it granola. Now you can make it, too. It's easy and fun and delightfully crunchy with milk or cream—or as a snack by the handful. Try these two delicious recipes.

QUAKER'S HONEY-ALMOND GRANOLA

Makes about 7 cups cereal

4 cups Quaker Oats (Quick or Old Fashioned, uncooked)	1/4 cup sesame seed
1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar	1 cup slivered almonds
1/2 cup wheat germ	1/3 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup flaked or shredded coconut	1/4 cup honey
	1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat oats in an ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) 10 minutes. Combine oats, brown sugar, wheat germ, coconut, sesame seed and almonds. Add oil, honey and vanilla; mix until dry ingredients are well coated. Bake in an ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan in preheated oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes, stirring often to brown evenly. Cool. Stir until crumbly. Serve with cold milk or cream. Store in a tightly covered container in refrigerator.

QUAKER'S FRUIT MIX GRANOLA

5 cups Quaker Oats (Quick or Old Fashioned, uncooked)	1/3 cup honey
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar	1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup salted soybeans, finely chopped	1/2 cup chopped, dried apricots
1/3 cup vegetable oil	1/2 cup chopped dates
	1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Heat oats in an ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) 10 minutes. Combine oats, brown sugar and soybeans. Add oil and honey; mix until dry ingredients are well coated. Bake in ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan in preheated oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes, stirring often to brown evenly. Cool. Add raisins, apricots, dates and walnuts. Stir until crumbly.
